Hundreds Aid G-Men In Search For Kidnapers Of Florida Boy

PRINCETON, Fla., June 1.—(UP)—Hundreds of Southern Florida fishermen, war veterans and farmers joined today in a hunt through the fringe of the treacherous Everglades for trace of kidnapped Jimmy Cash.

The hunt, delayed on advice of G-men who still hoped the five-year-old boy might be returned safely, began shortly after noon while Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned M. P. Braxton, a middle-aged carpenter.

Still Has Hope
Jimmy's father, James R. Cash, sr., refused to give up hope that the kidnapers, to whom he paid $10,000 ransom yesterday, would still keep their promise to return the blond youth safely.

W. P. Cash, the boy's uncle, said he had abandoned all hope that the boy is alive, however. He helped organize the searchers.

Race Against Time
The hunt for the boy and the hideaway of the men who snatched him from his bed last Saturday became a race against time. If the child is held in an Everglades hideout, the searchers said, he probably could not survive the sweltering sun, swarms of mosquitoes and other hardships of the swamps.

Braxton, who lives near the Cash home was picked up by G-men at Princeton and taken to Miami for questioning. No charge had been placed against him and the G-men gave no hint of what they sought of him.

Hundreds Aid
Men poured into Princeton and Homestead from virtually every village of Southeast Florida and the Keys to participate in the search. Meeting in a sweltering packing house, they received instructions from C. E. Connelly, ace G-man who flew here to take charge of the case.

Many of the men carried arms. Most were clad in denim and hip boots.

Leaders Chosen
Twenty-six leaders were chosen and each assigned 15 men to lead the parties, which promptly began an inch-by-inch hunt through the Redlands citrus and truck crop district and along the fringes of the Everglades.

Many of the possemen were war veterans. The searchers also included fishermen from the Keys and Boy Scouts. The Ku Klux Klan announced that its members were participating.

Three Suspects
G-men who were mobilized by air from northern bureaus, reportedly had three suspects under investigation in the neighborhood of Cape Sable—a village on the Florida Keys. Arthur C. Rutzen, chief of the Miami office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, refused, however, to confirm the reports.

Although Cash's neighbors still respected his wishes and left the area around his home clear, they also doubted that Jimmy was alive. Preparations for the manhunt were made. Speedboats were at anchor in the Homestead canal, cutting off exit from the flat land in the district. Legionnaires, Boy Scouts and Spanish-American war veterans volunteered their services for posses.

Maps Campaign
Gov. Fred Cone offered full facilities of the Florida National Guard. Residents of the district, familiar with the bottle neck system of highways at the tip of the Peninsula, said a cordon of National Guardsmen and volunteer possemen might be able to drive the kidnapers out of a hideaway and certainly could cut off their exit from the Redlands by blocking bridges and crossroads.

Within the section, however, there were innumerable hideaways. On one side were the Everglades. On the other was the sea with dozens of tiny islands and inlets where the kidnapers might hide for weeks. South of here are the Keys many of which are seldom visited.

Ortman Smashes Speed Record

SAN DIEGO, June 1.—(UP)—Earl Ortman, San Diego flying school instructor, established a record for the 500-mile flight from Oakland to San Diego today, negotiating the distance in one hour and fifty minutes, according to unofficial timers.

Ortman averaged close to 300 miles per hour for the flight, despite a 15-mile headwind throughout the greater part of the flight.

The speedy, yellow Marcoux-Bromberg monoplane in which Ortman last week won the 150-mile feature race of the Pacific International Air Races at Oakland landed at the North Island naval air station at 1:50 p. m. He had been timed off the ground at Oakland at 12 noon.

Hula Influence

County Librarian Assumes Duties

Mrs. Carma R. Zimmerman, newly appointed Orange County librarian, today assumed her duties. From headquarters in the courthouse annex, Mrs. Zimmerman will direct the county's library system, one of her first moves being a visit of inspection to the various branches, in company with Mrs. Clara Forman, who has been acting as librarian since former Librarian Dorothy Wents resigned to accept a post as Solano county librarian.

The new librarian, Mrs. Zimmerman, has been city librarian at Watsonville for 4 1/2 years, and previously was connected with the Berkeley public library. She came to Orange county highly recommended by State Librarian Mabel Gillis. Mrs. Zimmerman is one of the few librarians who have passed the state library board examinations and hold credentials necessary to the office she holds.

Loses Bet; Eats Editorial Page

DALLAS, Tex., June 1.—(UP)—Robert Jones, an admirer of President Roosevelt, thought newspaper editors were too critical of the President's policies. He announced that he would eat the first editorial in a Dallas newspaper that spoke kindly of the President.

The Dallas Journal carried an editorial praising a proposal of Mr. Roosevelt. Jones took the entire editorial page to a chemist, had it converted into glucose and dextrin and baked into a cake. In the presence of a party of friends, including Lynn Landrum, author of the editorial, Jones ate the cake.

Youth Is Victim Of Hit-Run

MESA, Ariz., June 1.—(UP)—The body of a youth, identified as Harold C. Boggs, about 17, of Eunice, N. M., was found by the roadside near here today, apparently the victim of a hit-run driver.

Constable Luther McAllister theorized the youth was standing by the highway, trying to "flag a ride," and was struck in the head by equipment extending from an overloaded truck. His head was crushed and his arm and body mangled. The accident apparently occurred shortly after midnight.

Scores Die In Air Raids

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, June 1.—(UP)—Nationalist and Loyalist airplanes, their operations reaching a new peak of fury, spread destruction and death through northeastern Spain and the Balearic Islands today, and fought each other in giant fleets over the Catalan battle lines.

The town of Granollers, north of Barcelona, was plunged into mourning as the result of a Nationalist air raid yesterday. It was estimated that 800 persons in all were killed and 800 wounded.

Ships Destroyed
The British merchant steamship Pentames lay at the bottom of Valencia harbor, sunk by a direct hit of a Nationalist aerial bomb. Nearby, beached, was the smoldering bulk of the French merchantman El Djem, hit in a previous raid. Raids on Barcelona, Sagunto, Castellon De La Plana, San Adrian and Buddalona in Loyalist territory were reported in the last 24 hours.

The Loyalists asserted that their planes bombed the Nationalist airbase at Inda, on Majorca island in the Balearics, and the Port of Palma, chief city of Majorca.

Claims Differ
Nationalists and Loyalists gave the usually sharply divergent accounts of a fierce aerial battle over the eastern front. The Nationalists asserted that they had shot down 14 planes of the Loyalist fleet; the Loyalists asserted that they had shot down 14 Italian planes and one German plane of the insurgent fleet. The Nationalists said they had lost no planes; the Loyalists admitted the loss of three.

A story of frightful destruction and suffering came from the Loyalist town of Granollers. It has a population of about 12,000.

Nazis in Raid
Official reports said that five German airplanes, driven away from Barcelona by anti-aircraft guns, made north of Granollers. The town was just getting down to its morning work yesterday when the planes arrived. After bombing, it was said, they swept down in V formation and machine gunned people who were fleeing for shelter.

Forty bombs were dropped on the little town and there was a casualty for almost every family. The British merchantman Pentames was the fourth British ship struck in recent Nationalist raids.

Nationalists claimed good advances on the Teruel and coast fronts in northeastern Spain, and said that continued Loyalist attacks in the Tremp-Sort zone at the northern end of the Catalan front were repulsed.

Special Squad To Fight Kidnapers

OAKLAND, Calif., June 1.—(UP)—District Attorney Earl Warren today announced the formation of a special police squad to combat kidnappings in the San Francisco east bay area.

The squad was given its first assignment today in a search for three men in an old yellow automobile who, according to the boy's grandmother apparently attempted to kidnap three-year-old Don Willis, Jr., son of an Oakland fireman. Mrs. May Burnam, the grandmother, told police the men tried to lure the boy into their car. She screamed and called the boy, and the men fled, she said.

Man With Strong Knees Gets Job

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.—(UP)—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio said today that Capt. Fred G. Somers has been hired to let an archer shoot an apple off his head for the movies.

Howard Hill, one of the world's best archers, will shoot the arrow from a distance of 50 yards. The William Tell feat will be used in a Pete Smith short film called "Follow the Arrow."

Capt. Somers, according to a studio announcement, applied for the job after he heard that a man was wanted who could hold the apple on his head and still keep his knees steady.

Bombers End Hop To Alaska

SITKA, Alaska, June 1.—(UP)—Four huge U. S. navy patrol bombers of squadron VP-19 were at Sitka today after a non-stop flight yesterday from Sand Point naval air station at Seattle.

Six planes of VP-19 set out yesterday morning, but one developed motor trouble and, with an accompanying craft, returned to Seattle. The disabled engine will be replaced and the ships will fly here within a few days.

"In"-Finley

"You're in. Stay on the job," Mrs. Spangler was ordered by Supervisor Steele Finley, above, welfare department committeeman for the board of supervisors. It is the second time Finley has opposed Snow's department shakeups.

ANTI-TRUST SUIT LAUNCHED BY U. S.

NEW YORK, June 1.—(UP)—Trial of the long pending anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America began in federal court today, with the government charging that the company and its subsidiaries in the United States and Canada exercised "100 per cent control" over all aluminum products in the "entire western hemisphere."

The trial, based on proceedings instituted by the government under the federal trade act and the Sherman anti-trust law, is expected to last from six months to a year. U. S. District Judge Francis G. Caffey presided.

Walter L. Rice, assistant to the attorney general, was in charge of the government's forces.

The defense was represented by 16 attorneys, headed by William Watson Smith of Pittsburgh. The action, brought to enjoin the company and its subsidiary, Aluminum Ltd. of Canada from "monopolistic practices," named 33 defendants, two of whom are dead. The deceased are the late Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and Albert K. Laurie.

In his opening address to a court, Rice said that the proceedings were brought to put an end to "monopoly and price fixing" by the company and its affiliated units.

Peace Restored In Labor War

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(UP)—Peace was restored on the strike-bound docks of Fish Harbor today after a riot of 500 fishermen longing to rival CIO and AFL unions. Two men were stabbed before police riot squads arrived.

Pete Kunich, 54, and Vido Svirachovich, 23, were slashed in the back in a fight outside the AFL central labor council hall.

The wounded men are members of the CIO United Fishermen of the Pacific which has been on strike for six weeks and is opposing the smaller AFL union's efforts to sign an agreement with cannery to go back to work.

Lady Plunket's Estate 2 Million

LONDON, June 1.—(UP)—The will of Lady Plunket, who was killed in an air crash at San Simon, Calif., last February, was published today, revealing that she left a net estate of $2,045,510 to her mother, Fanny Ward. Death duties on the estate total nearly $875,000.

Lady Plunket, who was killed in the same crash, died intestate. He left a net fortune of approximately $28,000.

AWARD $35,939,450 SHASTA DAM CONTRACT TO L. A. FIRM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 1.—(UP)—Pacific Constructors, Inc., Los Angeles, today submitted the low bid for construction of the huge Shasta Dam, key unit of the Central Valleys water and power project. The firm's offer was $35,939,450.

Only two bids were presented at government, the successful contractor supplying labor and equipment. Terms permit 2,000 calendar days to complete the project. Bureau of Reclamation officials said the contract for the "Shoofly" tunnel around the dam, designed to permit railroad traffic to proceed while the dam is under construction, has been awarded to the Colonial Construction Co., of Spokane. Work is scheduled to begin late this month or early in July.

Huge Project
Located on the Sacramento river near Redding, the dam and power plant will be the largest project in the state.

"Out," Says Snow

"You're out," said County Welfare Director Jack Snow to his assistant, Mrs. Belle Spangler, today. He announced dismissal of the assistant director and Mrs. Mary Lyons, case worker under Mrs. Spangler.

But apparently stalemated by Supervisor Steele Finley's action in countering the dismissal, as welfare committeeman of the board of supervisors, Snow may be forced to thresh the issue out before the entire board.

Japan Army Fights Trap

SHANGHAI, June 1.—(UP)—Ten thousand hard pressed Japanese, trapped between the Yellow River and the Lunghai railroad dug in today and turned back repeated Chinese assaults, reports from the front said.

The Japanese, under the veteran campaigner, Lieut. Gen. Kenji Doihara, were attempting to hold out until reinforcements from Kweichow, to the east, arrived. Japanese reports said the relief columns were making rapid progress.

Fighting Better
Chinese military authorities said Oihara's men had erected bomb proof dugouts in the dozen or so mud walled towns in which they are holed.

Both sides reported that the fighting in the vicinity of Lanfeng, on the Lunghai line east of Kailfeng, was the hardest since the bitter struggle for Shanghai.

Plan Final Drive
The Japanese reported that their columns elsewhere throughout North Central China were awaiting the final drive.

3000 LOSE JOBS AS UTAH MINE CLOSES

SALT LAKE CITY, June 1.—(UP)—Closing of the Bingham Canyon mine of the Utah Copper Company, one of the largest mines in the world, and the company's smelters at Garfield was ordered today.

The shutdown will be complete June 15. Approximately 3000 men will lose their jobs.

D. D. Moffatt, vice president and general manager of the company, said the shutdown was for an indefinite period.

The mine and smelters were closed, he said, because of the accumulation of excessively large stocks of copper in the last eight months.

The mine at Bingham is the largest open-pit copper mine in the world, and last year produced more copper than any other single mine. In peak production the mine and smelters employ more than 4000 men, while 3000 are employed in normal operations. The property last year accounted for an approximate net income of $11,000,000.

Utah Copper is a subsidiary of the Kennecott Copper Corp.

State Ends CIO Rioting Case

NEVADA CITY, Cal., June 1.—(UP)—Five CIO miners charged with rioting at the Murchie mine last January today testified in their defense as the trial continued through its third week.

The prosecution rested late yesterday and Superior Judge Raglan Tuttle denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

First miner to be questioned was Henry Yuen, who denied throwing rocks or disabling cars of officers, as charged by the prosecution. He admitted placing his gloves over the exhaust pipe but denied stopping up the pipe with mud.

Ousted????

Mrs. Belle Spangler, assistant county welfare director, above, notified of dismissal by Director Jack Snow, also notified by Supervisor Steele Finley to remain on the job, waits to see who is boss.

FEAR NEW CLASH IN CHURCH-STATE FEUD

MEXICO CITY, June 1.—(UP)—Further disorders were feared today in Tabasco state over the bitter church-state feud which has split Mexico for 20 years.

The latest clash took place at Villa Hermosa, where four Catholics were killed and a Catholic and a policeman injured during a demonstration by Catholics demanding freedom of worship.

The tension was further increased by the campaign for the party nomination for governor of Tabasco. Among the candidates were Judge Manuel Bartlett, who recently granted and later denied the petition of foreign oil companies seeking an injunction to set aside a national labor rule terminating a workers contract, and Senator Trujillo Gurria.

Catholics in Tabasco state recently petitioned President Lazaro Cardenas to restore religious services in the state.

Gov. Victor Fernandez Manero of Tabasco, in reporting the disorders telegraphed the department of interior that "Catholics are responsible for the disturbance."

The Mexico City Tabasco committee countered that "gendarmes committed murder."

The federal Senate received numerous protests against the governor's attitude. Catholics throughout Mexico telegraphed the Most Rev. Vincente Camacho, Bishop of Tabasco, at Guadalajara to protest the killings. Bishop Camacho has resided in Guadalajara since he was exiled from Tabasco during the dictatorship of Tomas Garrido Canabal.

Catholic peasants have been gathering in Villa Hermosa since May 11 and have held daily meetings on the site of the church which was torn down when the Garrido regime banned all religious exercises, expelled priests unless they married, and razed churches, using the bricks to pave the capital's streets. The peasants engaged chiefly in rebuilding the walls of the church and the altar.

Mourn Death Of Civic Leader
SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 1.—(UP)—Sacramento today mourned the death of George Wilfred Peltier, 78, banker and civic leader who was best known for his building of the city's largest theaters.

Peltier died yesterday after being stricken with a heart attack Saturday. Although he retired as vice president of a Bank of America branch here in 1937, he remained in an advisory capacity.

He was president of companies owning several theaters and buildings, chief among which were the Senator and Alhambra theaters, considered among the finest in the state. Peltier was born in Jackson, Amador county, in 1859. He spent his youth in Sacramento, later he made a fortune in Nevada mining activities, and then returned here to engage in banking and civic enterprise. He was an active Mason for 50 years.

Millionaire, 66, Weds Nurse, 34

PASADENA, June 1.—(UP)—Harold Fowler McCormick, 66-year-old harvester millionaire, and his comely 34-year-old bride began a quiet honeymoon today in the heavily guarded estate of McCormick's sister where they were married last night.

Twenty-five gardeners and private detectives guarded the gates and high iron picket fence of the estate, and not even messenger boys with armfuls of congratulatory messages were admitted when McCormick took Miss Adah Wilson of Los Angeles, his former nurse, as his third wife.

Only McCormick's two physicians who are treating him for a heart ailment and the bride's parents witnessed the simple marriage ceremony read in the drawing room by the Rev. James Fifield, Jr., of Los Angeles.

MRS. SPANGLER OUSTED BY SNOW; FINLEY BLOCKS MOVE

Surface waters of the county welfare department, ruffled and churned by internal disturbances for months, today suffered a major upheaval when Director Jack W. Snow notified his assistant, Mrs. Belle Spangler, of her summary dismissal.

And Supervisor Steele Finley of Santa Ana, welfare department committeeman for the board, promptly instructed Mrs. Spangler to remain on the job.

Causes Under Surface
Snow's order dismissing Mrs. Spangler and Supervisor Finley's order countering the dismissal, were the only facts that came to public view. Causes behind Director Snow's action remained below the surface, though he explained that he had advised individual members of the board of supervisors of his reasons for taking the step. There was no official statement to the board as such.

To newspapermen, Snow merely stated that "the dismissal of Mrs. Spangler became imperative because of facts which have recently been called to my attention. I have reported these facts to the board of supervisors."

Co-Worker Dismissed
Mrs. Mary Lyons, case worker in the division of indigent aid, which is under Mrs. Spangler's direction, also was dismissed by Snow. She is a Columbia university graduate and was head of the housing homes division in the welfare department until Snow some time ago demoted her to the present position of case worker. A widow with two children, she makes her home with Mrs. Spangler at Laguna Beach.

Mrs. Spangler, a veteran of the department, has been in her position about seven years. She was a holdover from the previous administration of the welfare department. Her dismissal came as a bombshell to county workers at the courthouse, among whom she has wide popularity.

"Stalemate"
How long the stalemate between Snow and Finley will stand was a question that might be settled, it was thought, at a special meeting of the supervisors set for next Friday in connection with another matter.

Snow maintains that he has authority to "hire and fire" without referring to the board of supervisors. Their approval is needed only in cases of classification changes within the department, he said.

It is Finley's second open opposition to Snow's changes of personnel. Some weeks ago Snow carried the matter of a classification change affecting two women employees, over Finley's head to the board, which sustained him and overrode Finley's objection. At that time, Chairman Willard Smith was the only member to support Finley. Supervisors N. E. West, John Mitchell and Harry D. Riley sided with Snow.

The board's likely action on Mrs. Spangler's dismissal, if required, was a topic of lively comment in official quarters today. Meanwhile Mrs. Spangler remained at her desk in the welfare department.

P. O. Receipts In 26 Per Cent Gain
With Santa Ana postal receipts for May showing an increase of 26 per cent over May, 1937, total receipts for the first five months of the year aggregated $89,352.76, a gain of more than $10,000 for the period, according to a check-up made today by Postmaster Frank Harwood.

Receipts for the month totaled $16,656.88, a gain of $3443.14 over a similar period last year. Total for the first two months of the second quarter for 1938 reached $23,353.32, a gain of more than $4000 over a similar period last year.

"Postal receipts are not conclusive proof of better business conditions," Harwood said today, "but they do give a good general indication of the trend business is taking. We also realize that the activity of the post office during National Air Mail Week, held during May, gave added impetus to the increase."

L. A. Man Named To State Board
SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 1.—(UP)—C. C. Craig, Los Angeles laundry operator, today succeeded Judge Isadore M. Golden of San Francisco as a member of the state industrial welfare commission.

Craig was appointed by Gov. Frank F. Merriam following the resignation of Chairman Golden to accept Merriam's appointment as superior court judge in San Francisco. The commission enforces the minimum wage law for women.

NARCOTIC FANS ARABS' FRENZY

JERUSALEM (UP)—The virulent drug hashish apparently is playing a large part in keeping Arab terrorism fanned to fever pitch.

Nearly all terrorists captured by the police and troops have been found to be under the influence of the drug, whose increased smuggling into this country has presented authorities with a problem almost as serious as the Arab-Jew disturbances.

Men of the East have used hashish for centuries. The word "assassin" is derived from its name. And today, according to authorities, the Arab bands swallow large doses before they go out to ambush and kill in the hills around Jerusalem.

According to the Arab press in the Arab city of Jaffa alone 10,000 hashish addicts are known to the police out of a population of 60,000.

Sheik's Case Cited
The bandits go to extraordinary lengths to get the drug whose chief effects are aphrodisiac, and a sense of extreme courage and aggressiveness. One of the chief prison officials in Palestine has told the story of how Sheik Farhan, leader of the terrorist bands in northern Palestine, obtained the drug while in Acre jail awaiting execution.

His four wives came to kiss him farewell. All of them kissed him on the mouth. Now the warden knew that it was not the custom of an Arab to kiss wives in public under any circumstances, and that in any case an Arab usually kisses a woman on the cheek. His suspicions aroused, he investigated and found that each of the wives had transferred a dose of hashish from her mouth to the sheik's.

Today the terrorists follow almost the same semi-religious ritual of the mysterious Order of Assassins formed originally in the 11th century to fight the Crusaders.

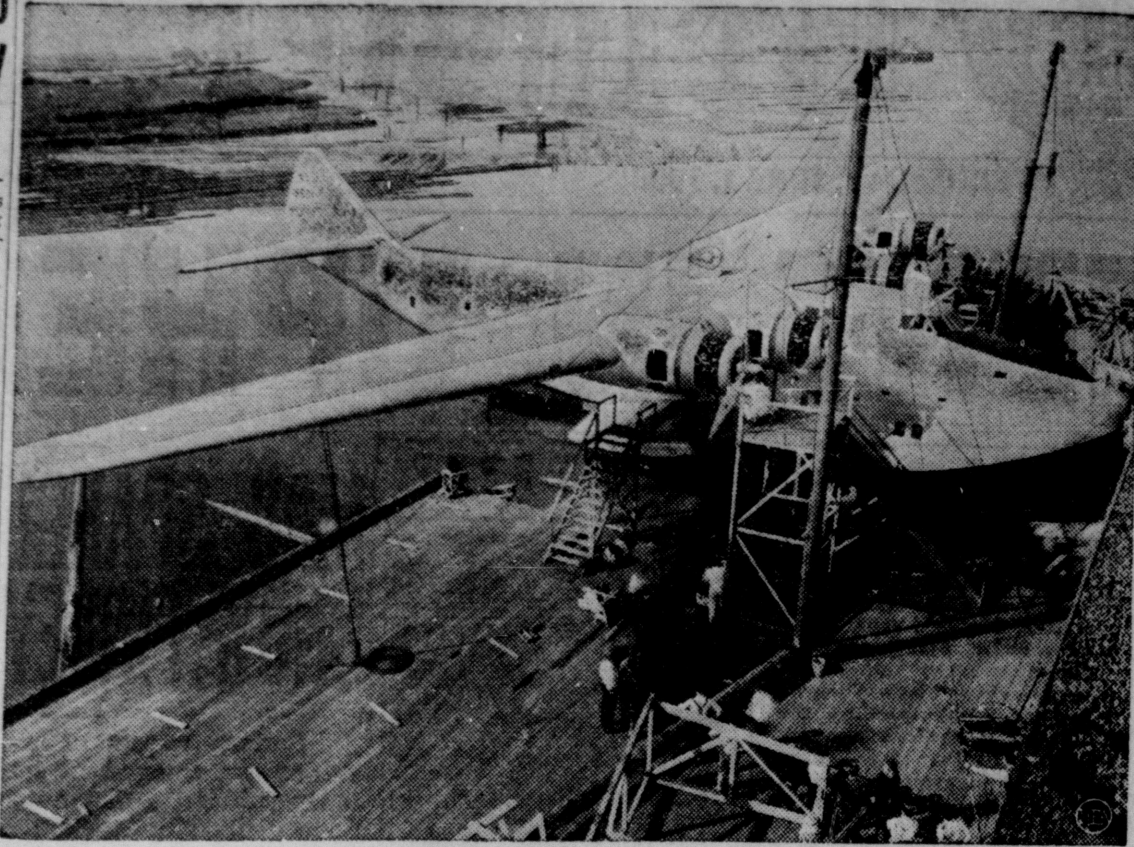

Strange Ritual Followed
Neophytes were drugged and taken to a luxurious harem filled with beautiful hours. They were told they were in "Paradise" but after several days tasting its delights, they were drugged again and taken back into ordinary life. They then were told that in order to get back again they must commit a holy killing, then kill themselves and they would then return to Paradise.

The word "hashish" was derived from this practice, and later corrupted into assassin.

Today, since the escape from Palestine of Fawzi Bey el Kawakji, commander-in-chief of the Arab revolt in 1936, the bands have had no central headquarters, but in each district they are under the orders of the local religious sheiks.

When an act of terrorism is to be committed, the sheik summons the band and lots are drawn to select those who are to carry it out. A special religious ritual is conducted, during which the sheik exhorts the chosen group on the

With transoceanic flights her life mission, this giant 74-passenger clipper plane has just been taken from the Boeing plant in Seattle to prepare for taxing and flying tests. station will be rivalled in size only by the mighty Boulder Dam in Nevada and the Grand Coulee dam now under construction on the Columbia river in Washington.

The dam will be 560 feet high, seven feet higher than Grand Coulee. It will be second in height to the 727-foot Boulder Dam.

Shasta's crest length will be 3500 feet, nearly three times more than the 1282 length of Boulder but short of the record 4200 foot dam on the Columbia. It will be second only to Grand Coulee in mass, requiring 5,610,000 cubic yards of cement.

California's rich Central Valley is greater in territorial expanse than all of England, having 20,000 square miles of land and 3,000,000 acres under irrigation. From this fertile area comes three-fourths of the world's supply of grapes, raisins and dried fruits and more than a quarter of the vegetables purchased by American housewives.

California legislators have pushed through federal financing for the giant self-liquidating project. When completed, the water project will encompass the Shasta dam on the Sacramento river, Friant dam on the San Joaquin river north of Fresno, the Contra Costa canal. And other smaller circuits and canals.

ATOMIC POWER ENVISIONED FOR 1,000 M. P. H. AIRCRAFT SPEED

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(UP)—Conquest of the stratosphere with super-craft hurtling along at speeds of 1000 miles an hour will become possible when engineers "smash up the atom and give us atomic power," Igor I. Sikorsky, famous airplane designer, declared.

To illustrate his declaration Sikorsky traced the record of man's victories over speed during the ages.

"Nature puts a tax on us and we have to pay that tax," he explained.

"We can already see the ultimate range of the gasoline motor. We have made 440 miles an hour but we believe that somewhere between 500 and 600 miles an hour will come up against a stone wall.

"It is up to you gentlemen to smash up the atom and give us atomic power. With it we can achieve speeds of 1000 miles an hour and conquer the stratosphere."

He pointed out that this problem of a new power plant "may not be solved in the next quarter of a century or in the next generation." He asserted, however, that it was the next logical step in transportation.

"It is this way," Sikorsky continued. "Man's speed was equal to that of the horse until the gasoline motor was invented. I don't believe greater speeds than those possible with the ancient Egyptian war chariots were made until the gasoline motor was invented. We are now in sight of the top range of the speed possible with the motor."

The new frontier, he repeated, is the stratosphere. Meantime, the famous Russian aeronautics expert said, great luxury liners and "flivver" planes will make highways of the air. Private "flivver" planes are very much a probability, he said, adding:

"We won't see them before we see great luxury liners, however. But the time is coming when there will be hundreds of thousands, yes, millions of them, in the air. That time is a little farther away and there is a lot of engineering to be done on that type of plane yet, but they are coming."

Sikorsky was asked what his greatest thrill in aviation was, and he smilingly answered:

"In the past three years all of the thrills have been taken out of aviation. It is now a straight engineering proposition worked out by definite mathematical formulae. I think it was the time when I realized that this was true and that aviation was no longer thrilling that I had my greatest thrill in the aviation industry."

The United States Biological Survey has banded more than 3,000,000 birds, for the purpose of Mapping the migratory flyways of the various species.

"Free" Speech—No Charge

Arthur Garfield Hays, famous attorney of the American Civil Liberties Union, scrambles to the top of a parked car to make an impromptu speech—without a permit—in Jersey City where Mayor Frank Hague once threatened Hays would not "see this friends for a long, long time" if he ever returned to make another public address. A couple of cops, standing nearby, did nothing to stop Hays' speech and merely made the car-owner drive his vehicle away, even though Hays defied them to arrest him.

orders for a final drive on Hankow, the provisional capital. The attack was expected to be delayed until the Japanese have occupied Kail-feng.

Spokesmen said Japanese columns were poised in a semi-circle from Wuhu north to Mencheng. Pohsien and Kweitch, from where the drive to Hankow would be started.

Chinese press reports claimed that Mencheng, strategic point south of the Lungshai line, had fallen, but military authorities doubted this because the city is a Japanese stronghold. Another Chinese report said that guerrillas had entered Hotel, in Anhwei Province, and set fire to a large section of the city. Strong guerrilla forces were said to have been massed three miles from the city preparatory to an attack.

Canton breathed easier today. The morning passed with no signs of Japanese bombers which killed approximately 2000 and wounded 5000 in four consecutive days.

Aircraft Corp. Pays Dividend

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 1.—(UP)—A dividend of five cents on each of the 123,640 shares of common stock outstanding was announced today by Edmund T. Price, president of the Solar Aircraft Corp., here.

The dividend is payable July 1 to stock of record June 3.

Price said the dividend was authorized as a result of "the most successful year our company ever experienced."

Estimated net profits, before taxes and other charges for the fiscal year ending April 30, amounted to $50,000, an increase of 142 per cent over the 1936 period.

Tests Flunked On "Slanguage" By Professors

FORT WORTH, Tex., (UP)—Simple campus "slanguage" flunked four Texas Christian University faculty members, who for once were called upon to answer rather than question their students.

Three of the four professors have doctors' degrees and the fourth is an English teacher. Dr. Colby D. Hall, dean of men, made a grade of 70 on 10 every-day campus words although he knew the precise definition of only 6. Dr. Newton Gaines, head of the T.C.U. physics department, answered 6 of 10, the same as Prof. Mabel Major of the English department. Dr. Clinton Lockhart, teacher of Old Testament in the Bible college, could answer only 3.

The terms that the teachers couldn't define, or sometimes even pronounce, included:

"Gaudy frill"—a pretty girl.

"Sourpuss"—an unpleasant person.

"Slurp"—to eat or drink noisily.

"Slap-happy"—Silly or light-headed.

"Rub"—a school dance.

"High as a kite"—simple drunk.

11 ASPIRANTS
GET PETITIONS

At noon today, 11 candidates had left the barrier in the Orange county political campaign of 1938, as the opening gun was officially fired.

The 11 took out nominating petitions, which they may file on or before June 25, the closing day of the nominating period.

Those who obtained petitions to-day were: James M. Pearson, Fullerton chief of police, candidate for sheriff; Justice Halsey I. Spence, of Fullerton, candidate for re-election; Constable W. H. Skillman, of Fullerton, candidate for re-election; Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, of Santa Ana, candidate for superior judge, office No. 2; Elmer R. Guy, Fullerton attorney, candidate for district attorney; County Surveyor W. H. Hillyard, candidate for re-election; A. J. Cruickshank, former Santa Ana banker, candidate for county treasurer; Sam L. Snodgrass, candidate for constable of Anaheim township; County Recorder Fred Sidebottom, candidate to succeed himself; George F. Holden, Anaheim attorney, candidate for district attorney; B. P. Donnelly, Dana Point, candidate for Democratic central committee.

SENDS LETTER TO SEN. ADAMS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, in a letter to Sen. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., urged that "no restrictions" be placed in the $3,247,000,000 recovery bill which would prevent an immediate start on projects.

The president's letter was a direct challenge to efforts of a group of senators to earmark recovery funds in an effort to restrict the president's power under the measure.

Time Essential
Mr. Roosevelt told Adams, floor manager for the spending-lending bill that "if the government undertakes to relieve unemployment by the measure now before congress the time element is an essential to success."

The president declared that the "unemployment situation has grown worse" since submission of his relief message to congress six weeks ago.

"It is obvious," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that undertaking projects next winter or spring will not contribute to the serious necessities of this summer and autumn."

Asserting that private industry may be able to increase employment later because of spending for "deferred needs," he said it was the present gap that the administration sought to fill.

FRANCE TO HUNT TREASURE SHIP
PARIS, (UP)—The French government is going treasure-hunting in the mud of the Seine in the hope of recovering a diamond necklace of Marie Antoinette's and the rest of a fabulous fortune in jewels and art works which legend says sank with the ship Telemaque in 1790.

Bids were submitted to the government on May 19 for the dredging of that part of the river around Quilleboeuf, near La Havre, where the Telemaque sank. The contract specifies "raise, scrap and take away the wreck." The salvager, if successful, will have the right to all the pieces of wreckage and machinery. The government reserves for itself "all precious objects, gold, silver, platinum, moneys, jewels and precious stones . . . and all things of historical or artistic value."

Fishermen and waterfront artists who haunt the quays at Quilleboeuf, where the Seine meets the Atlantic, are shaking their heads pessimistically. The story of the Telemaque and its legendary treasures has been told to them and their fathers for 150 years—how the Telemaque, laden with treasures, was caught in the teeth of a hurricane as it reached the narrow Quilleboeuf passage. Its gallant captain, a Britisher named Cumberland, tried to force the passage but was caught in a tidal wave which swallowed the Telemaque, its passengers and its cargo, within 50 feet of the Quilleboeuf lighthouse.

100 STUDENTS ACT AS 'GUINEA PIGS' IN MOTOR SAFETY TESTS

Utilizing more than 100 students of Santa Ana High school as "guinea pigs" for the state of California, two representatives of the traffic department of the state, together with local opticians and members of the Santa Ana Traffic Safety Commission, made the first use of a card system of eye tests for motorists.

The eight tests were made with the new electric, mobile equipment for testing drivers brought to Santa Ana by Gerry Lockner, head of the state traffic safety commission education department.

Open to Public
The test will be continued today at the high school and will be open to the public tomorrow and Friday at the Santa Ana Hotel building, 608 North Main street. There is no charge for the tests.

The demonstration, which determines reaction time by the use of electric machinery and motion pictures, is being conducted in Santa Ana by Harry Fletcher and Fred Ball, members of the traffic department of the state, Dr. Roy S. Horton and Elmer Heidt, members of the traffic safety commission of the city, and Doctors Fred K. Haber, Harry L. Kendall, A. K. Loerch, Jr., and R. E. Walters.

CONCERT DRIVE NEAR 1,000 IN MEMBERSHIPS

Gerrard Gains Against Illness

A. W. Gerrard, resident of 2422 Elliott drive and prominent official of the Alpha Beta Omega County Food Markets, Inc., was more improved today at Santa Ana Valley hospital than he has been since he was taken there for treatment of a heart ailment, Sunday.

That was the report of his physician who said he was "quite pleased" with Gerrard's over-night showing. It will be several days before it can definitely be determined whether the ailment can be cured, the physician said.

Including all ranks, the British Army totals 201,000.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say there is a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell's for indigestion to make the stomach stomach acids harmless. Relief comes in 5 minutes and you are back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one of the best ways to keep your stomach healthy.

COUNTY REJECTS BID OF CHAMBER

The county supervisors yesterday turned down a request from chambers of commerce in the county, that $550 be appropriated from the county advertising fund for serving orange juice free to Shriners attending the national Shrine convention in Los Angeles this month.

Secretary Howard Wood, of the Santa Ana chamber, introduced E. R. Sharpley, Southern Pacific district agent, to the board, and Sharpley presented the proposition, stressing the advertising value to Orange county in such a move.

Supervisor N. E. West doubted the worth of that form of advertising, as compared to others, he said. Supervisor John Mitchell didn't see why Orange county should help Los Angeles county entertain the Shriners, he said.

Chairman Willard Smith, himself a Shriner, said he felt that, since the board had rejected similar requests from other organizations, such as the American Legion, it could not consistently grant this nickel-plated and pearl-handled, request. Other supervisors agreed.

GUN USED IN BANDIT CHASE IS HUNTED AS STOLEN PROPERTY

Believed stolen by a casual visitor to Hartwell's garage at Buena Park, yesterday, the .45 caliber Colt automatic reportedly used in an attempt to stop a fleeing bandit several months ago, was being sought by sheriff's officers today.

Officer Sterling of the Buena Park merchant police reported the gun belongs to Arthur Hartwell. It was taken from the Hartwell garage. It was Hartwell who dashed from the garage opposite the Southern County Bank of Buena Park to assist Cashier Bert Wells by attempting to shoot a bandit who had just held up and robbed Wells. However, neither bullets from the Hartwell or Wells guns took effect.

First Seen Jan. 20
The bandit, later identified by Wells as he who robbed the bank upon two occasions, first appeared January 20.

The bandit has been identified as Harry Groves, held in Los Angeles on the charge he murdered a Whittier boulevard cafe proprietor. The Hartwell automatic, valued at $15 to $25.

Home Department Plans Reports

Report of the nominating committee and election of officers for the coming year will feature the regular meeting of the home department of the Orange County Farm Bureau at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the bureau offices.

Mrs. T. W. Clark, of Stanton, chairman of the department will be in charge of the meeting. Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. A. F. Schroeder, Orange; Mrs. R. J. Mueller, Santa Ana; and Mrs. R. D. Flaherty, Santa Ana.

Rock Springs, Wyo., has an airport 6261 feet above sea level. Its population is only 8440.

REPORTS GIVE ZEST TO WORK

With the goal 1000 members to sponsor the Orange County Concert series within their grasp, more than 50 district chairmen of the organization met at Daniger's cafe yesterday and prevailed upon L. E. Behymer, agent for the series, to keep the campaign open through the rest of the week. The drive for sponsors had been scheduled to close today.

Reports of the various committeemen and their representatives at the meeting indicated a widespread interest throughout the county in the series that will bring five of the out-standing musical programs of the nation to Orange county.

A. Johnson, Dr. Howard Tews and Mrs. Charles Pierson.

Louis Danz, prominent music critic and composer, who is personally acquainted with a number of the artists to appear in the series, stressed the value of the series to the county in his report.

Hart, Orange; Mrs. John Holmes, Harry May, Ray Green, Benjamin Edwards, all of Fullerton; Frank Cuprien, Laguna Beach; Mrs. Robert E. Youths Captured As Burglars

Delebrt Pugett, 19, cook of Route 1, Box 259, Santa Ana, and his 15-year-old boy companion, were held by Orange county authorities today on charges they burglarized the Gray service station, 101 highway and Ed Hill road, Tustin, a week ago.

The pair smashed a window to enter the place, obtaining robe, flashlight, small sum of money, gasoline and other items. Bail for Pugett was fixed at $2500 by Justice D. T. Hayden of Tustin. The other youth was held for juvenile prosecution. Both boys were arrested by Los Angeles police for Pasadena police and yesterday both were given into custody of Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey, for this county.

ASKS CONGRESS CONSIDER WELFARE ACT

BOARD ADOPTS RILEY MEASURE

The county supervisors yesterday memorialized congress to "consider" the General Welfare Act, known officially as H. R. bill 4199. The resolution to memorialize the House and Senate was presented to the board by Supervisor Harry D. Riley, of Anaheim, and was adopted by unanimous vote. In its phrasing, the resolution did not go quite the length of the Alameda county board's resolution, a copy of which was brought before the Orange county board last week. The resolution asked congress to pass the General Welfare Act. The local resolution was amended in that respect, to "consider".

Edgar Hervey, San Diego attorney hired by the board to handle fee litigation against county officials, though officially designated "special assistant" to the district attorney, yesterday advised the board by letter of his acceptance. Hervey already has been in Santa Ana conferring with District Attorney W. F. Menton on the matter.

The board yesterday refused a request from the Los Angeles Times that Orange county place a quarter-page advertisement in the Times special vacation edition. A check from the treasurer of the United States, for $4421.95 was received yesterday by the board from Washington, as a refund to the county of extra money expended under a PWA project for constructing La Veta storm drain at Orange. Supervisor Harry D. Riley procured reopening of the matter of the county's claim for this money, while in Washington recently.

The new Mrs. Ickes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Dahlman of Milwaukee, a sister of the widow of the late Wilmarth Ickes, adopted son of the secretary, and a niece of John Cudahy, U. S. Minister to Ireland.

Mapping Project Nears Completion

That the mapping project under WPA which has been in progress in the county surveyor's office for the last three years, probably will be completed by the end of the fiscal year, June 30, was stated by County Supervisor W. H. Hillyard yesterday in suggesting to the county supervisors that application be made to WPA for a new project, to locate old and poorly described roads in the county.

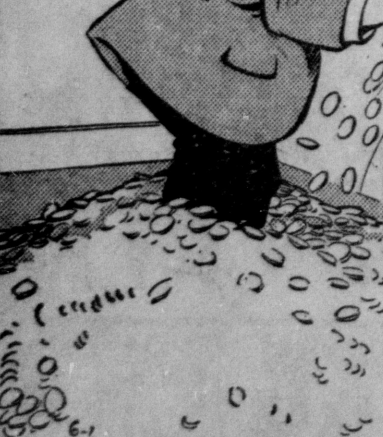

Under old Los Angeles county maps, many of these roads have indefinite legal description, said Hillyard. He said the cost to the county would be limited to about $175 or $180 per month, representing the salary of one man to supervise field crews doing the work.

The matter was discussed informally, with no action taken.

LATHROP GROUP FETES SAVANT

Bringing the school year of activity to a close, Julia Lathrop P-T-A, on Tuesday night, combined introduction of new officers and a short business meeting with a reception complimenting Mrs. Iva M. Webster, retiring after many years as a member of the city's teaching staff.

The meeting was held in the school cafeteria, and Mrs. E. R. Childs, newly elected president, introduced her staff of officers. They were Mrs. C. L. Williamson and Mrs. Lester Archer, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Don Hassett, recording secretary; Mrs. Victor Hipp, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. R. Musick, treasurer; Mrs. Dale Griggs, parliamentarian; H. G. Nelson, auditor; Mrs. P. B. Power, historian. Committee chairmen included Miss Iva Carl, welfare; Mrs. I. W. MacFarlane, social; Mrs. C. L. Williamson, budget and finance; Mrs. A. A. Leithold, publicity; Mrs. Dale Griggs, hospitality; Mrs. F. B. Power, membership; Mrs. R. Leurs, standard association; Mrs. J. C. Herrin, magazine; Mrs. Roch Bradshaw, music and art; Mrs. F. Corey, character, education, recreation; Homer Chaney and Mrs. Paul Eby, program.

Nelson Gives Talk
Subsequent program features were in special compliment to Mrs. Webster, and were presided over by H. G. Nelson, Lathrop principal, with whom she has been associated as vice-principal and dean of girls.

Nelson pointed out that they had assembled to pay tribute to Mrs. Webster, and were presided over by her. He placed upon her head, its jewels were the tributes paid by those who had been associated with Mrs. Webster in some capacity throughout the years.

Following Mr. Nelson in paying honor to Mrs. Webster, were J. A. Cranston, former superintendent of city schools; Miss Edith Cornell, representing the teaching corps at Lathrop; the Rev. J. H. Odgers, pastor of Richland avenue M. E. church, of which Mrs. Webster is a member; Mrs. Trusty, a former pupil of Mrs. Webster; Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of city schools, and Mrs. M. E. Geeting, a past president of Lathrop P-T-A.

Mrs. Geeting delivered a rather solemn occasion by reading a humorous selection, "Mother Will Help." Mrs. Roch Bradshaw, very picturesque at her lovely hair, played several numbers, among them, "Mighty Lak a Rose," and "The Sextette" from "Lucia." Other numbers were vocal solos by Charmeen Carlson who sang "The Heart That Is Free," and by Sam Campbell, who gave "A Brown Bird Singing." Both were accompanied by Daniel Stover at the piano.

Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, first president of Lathrop P-T-A, presented Mrs. Webster with a silver tea service as a token of esteem from the association. Mrs. Webster graciously expressed her appreciation of the gift. Mrs. I. W. MacFarlane, social chairman, then invited all to the teachers' dining room where Mrs. Frank Henderson and Mrs. John Cranston poured coffee from a silver service loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Thompson, who inherited it from her Welch ancestors. The service is said to be well over one hundred years old.

ASKS INJUNCTION IN WATER SNARL

Alleging that their neighbor, Joe Betschart, has refused to supply them with water for irrigating their orange grove, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Eaton, owners of the grove, and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Eaton, lessees of the orchard, today petitioned superior court for an injunction to prevent Betschart from interfering with their water supply.

The water is obtained from a well on the Betschart ranch, formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Walker, who made an agreement to supply water to the Eaton grove, the petition states. The agreement had been followed since 1923 until May 26, this year, when Betschart refused to permit further use of the water, the petitioners stated.

When they undertook to irrigate, he locked the shed around the well and twice turned off the electric power, they allege. Their grove has not been irrigated since the fall of 1937, and the trees are in need of water, they state, in asking the court for relief.

OAKLAND AIRPORT, Oakland, Calif., June 1.—(UP)—Earl Ortman, winner of the Treasure Island trophy at last week's Pacific International Air Races, planned a record breaking flight to San Diego this afternoon.

Ortman said high winds reported along the coast may slow him up, but he expected to complete the 500 mile flight in approximately an hour and a half.

Ortman, a San Diego flying instructor, will fly the yellow Marquise monoplane that won him the prize money in the air races. He planned to land at Speed Field in San Diego, where official American Aeronautical Association timers will clock his arrival.

All that spring the two of them were together; they sat on the porch evenings with the others of the house, all of them enjoying each other's presence, and nobody feeling like an intruder because they left the two of them alone early. Most of them started to bed about 10 o'clock, and Joe and Helen stayed there later.

Or if they didn't sit on the porch, they went for a walk, window shopping on North Main street or strolling out to Spring Creek, where the town had set aside ground for a park. Or on Saturdays they went to a picture or to a dance somewhere in the settlement. Both of them had friends, but they were mostly just together. They were waiting, and so was all their house.

I know this doesn't seem like much of a story, all about two youngsters wanting to get married and nothing in the world to stop them. I know there is no conflict for you to follow, wondering who will win out. That is why I can't tell it like an ordinary love story, with dialog and scenes and pieces that fall together in a pattern that comes clear only at the end. Their dialog has nothing at all to do with this story, which I have told you is about love. They talked about themselves.

FOR instance, Joe coming home in the late afternoon and walking in the kitchen door. Everybody used the kitchen door in working clothes; the front door only after they cleaned up. He usually found Helen standing over the coal range just inside the door, watching a great pot of stew with Polish trimmings that the old lady had put on a couple of hours before, or testing steaming potatoes or something similar, her color high with the heat and her eyes bright with the moment. She could watch out the door from there. And Joe could stop in the door, leaning against the door jamb, out of the way of the kitchen activity and yet in the midst of it. He always smiled as if he'd just told the boss exactly what to do or a cop where to go, looking conceded as could be, yet really not.

Then, always quite taken by surprise at her work and a little jauntily proud of herself, she smiled a big, blue-eyed, radiant blond smile. "Home again, Joe?" "Right side up, kid." He eyed the stove, sniffing hungrily. "Stew? You make it?"

Scarecrows To Attract Many Mesa Visitors

COSTA MESA, June 1.—Costa Mesa's scarecrow carnival Saturday and Sunday is expected to attract hundreds of visitors. Over 50 entries are scheduled for the event.

The program Saturday night will include a street dance. A hillbilly orchestra will furnish music. The carnival is sponsored by the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce.

The scarecrows will be on exhibition in the center of Costa Mesa day and night, June 4 and 5.

Group Told Need Of Cooperation

NEWPORT BEACH, June 1.—Marc Goodnow, field representative of the school of journalism of the University of Southern California, was the principal speaker at the meeting Tuesday of the Costa Mesa-Newport Harbor Lions club.

Merchants were advised to cooperate to keep business within the community irrespective of which merchant secured a particular account. Willard Minor and Sidney Davidson were program chairmen.

A second speaker was Orval Lloyd, who was sent north the past weekend as the harbor area representative in a state track meet.

Lloyd won third place in a Southern California meet three weeks ago but failed to place in the state meet. His trip was made possible through Costa Mesa merchants and the Lions club.

EDWARDS GETS NEW POSITION

FULLERTON, June 1.—Benjamin Edwards, who has become well known throughout Southern California for his musical activity in the Fullerton District Junior college as well as in the broader fields, has handed his resignation to the board of trustees of the school district, and has signed a contract for a teaching position, full time, at the University of Southern California.

Edwards, best known for his work with a capella groups, has been filling, as part time instructor, a position left vacant when John Smallman, director of the U. S. C. capella group, died at about Christmas time. He was given special leave by the trustees to do this work, in addition to the regular work here. He also has been doing some radio work while in Fullerton.

A special capella program is being arranged for June 10 at the Fullerton Union High school, as a farewell concert. Harry N. Suters will be master of ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and their children will move to Los Angeles after June 15.

BOARD HEARS VARIETY OF PLEAS

LIFE-SAVING IS AMONG POINTS

Recommendations for life-saving service and equipment on Orange county beaches were made by the Orange County Coast association to the county supervisors yesterday, in a communication outlining points which the coast group considered requisite.

These included adequate life-guard patrol at all beaches, with cities making their lifeguards and equipment available to the county in emergency; provision for devices and equipment for beaches not regularly patrolled, such beaches to be posted with notice to the public that there is no regular patrol, but that equipment is available; encouragement for private beaches to provide lifeguard protection and equipment; requirement that all lifeguards pass the life-saving tests of the Red Cross.

An unexpended balance in the gas tax allocation to the city of Fullerton amounting to $813.93, was granted to that city by the board.

A claim of the Bette Detective agency, Santa Ana, for $226.55, based upon investigations made for the district attorney's office, was held up on objection of Supervisor Steele Finley, who questioned an item of $35.10 for 351 miles of travel.

This allowance of 10 cents a mile did not fit the official county allowance of 3 1/2 cents per mile, Finley pointed out.

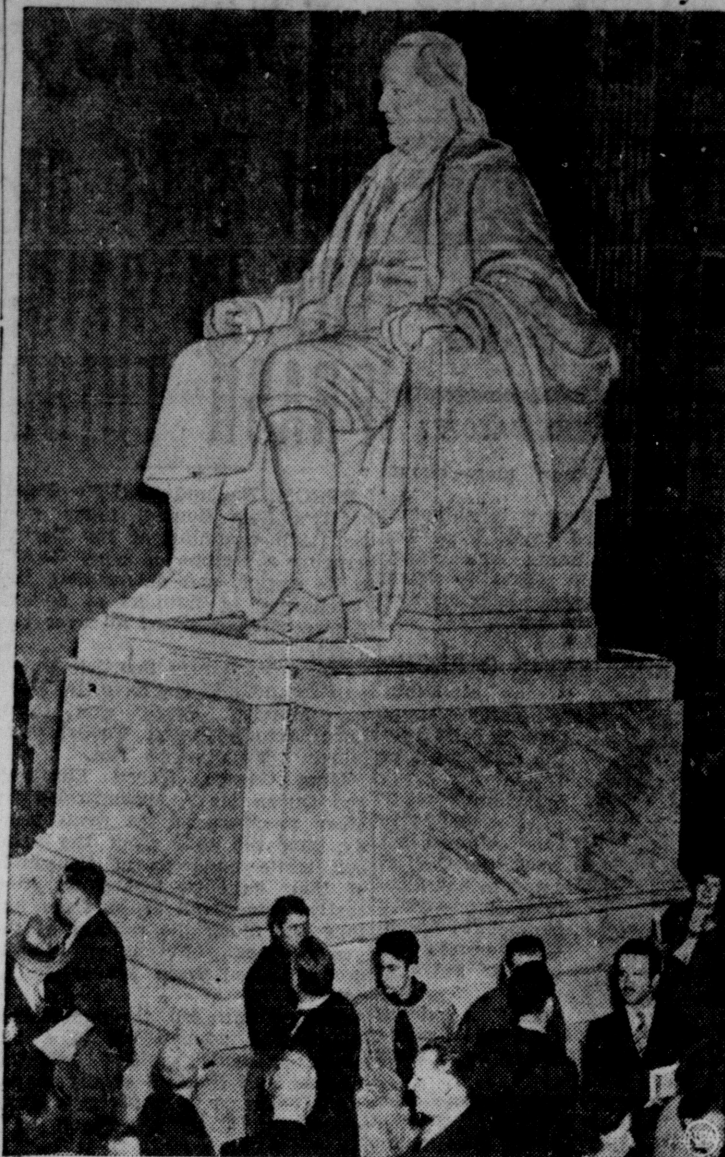

100 EXPECTED AT Y. M. FETE

About 100 men and women will attend the "International Friendship" dinner at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday evening, it was revealed today by Thomas J. Hunter, chairman of the committee in charge. Hunter reports a wide and sympathetic interest in the project to raise funds for the aid of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. work, which is carrying on under the adverse condition of war.

An interesting program has been arranged for the dinner, which will be served in the east lobby of the "Y" at 6:30 p.m. O. H. Barr will act as toastmaster for the program, presenting three young men who will speak on conditions of youth in China, Mexico, and Brazil. Thomas Elliott, recently returned from years of service as a Y.M.C.A. secretary in the Orient, will give a general summary of world conditions, and of the efforts of the American Y.M.C.A. to help young men to help themselves.

For Foreign Work Hunter pointed out the fact that the dinner tickets are being sold at one dollar each, but that there will be no "dollar a plate" banquet served. On the contrary, he explained, there will be a simple, satisfying meal, and it is the intention to send at least 60 cents of each dollar to the foreign work for which the dinner is given. Any who have not yet made their reservations may do so this evening, by telephoning the Y.M.C.A. office.

"Poor Richard" Honored Richly

Philadelphia, scene of many of Benjamin Franklin's accomplishments, honored him almost a century and a half after his death by unveiling the heroic-sized marble statue shown above and dedicating it with a three-day ceremony. The statue, weighing 120 tons and rising to a height of 20 feet, was carved by James Earle Fraser, and is housed in Philadelphia's magnificent Franklin Institute Museum.

TOMATO INDUSTRY OUTLINED IN NEW EXTENSION CIRCULAR

"Profitable tomato culture in California, one of the largest producing states in the country, depends upon many factors. Some of these may be controlled by the grower, while others, like weather and prices, vary each year.

"Profit depends upon yields, directly influenced by varieties, soils, handling and disease prevention, and time of maturity, in relation to market prices, influenced by time of planting and weather conditions."

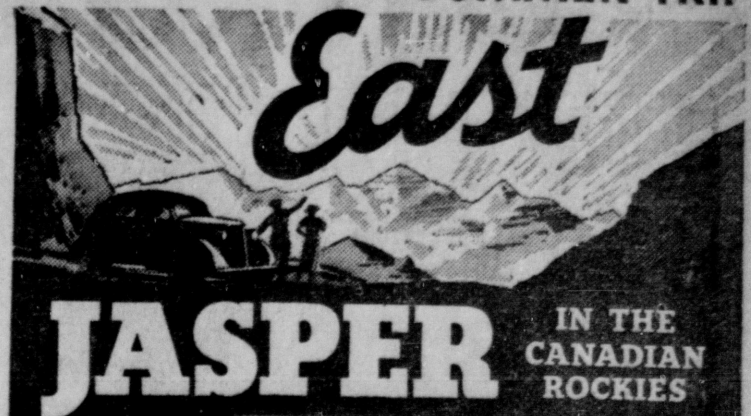

These statements are made in a new University of California Agricultural Extension Service Circular No. 104, just off the press, titled "The Production of Tomatoes in California." It may be obtained free from the farm advisor's office, courthouse annex, Santa Ana.

The circular describes the importance of the industry, tells of the locations of plantings in California, describes cropping systems, and discusses fertilizers and manures. It takes up the growing of the plants, field culture, irrigation, staking and pruning, unsatisfactory fruit setting, harvesting and transportation, yields, varieties, insects and diseases and their control.

Orange county tomato growers will find this information contained in this circular very helpful in producing their tomato crop, according to Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor.

Gehrig Expects To Last Five More

Lou Gehrig

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

Henry Louis Gehrig, who yesterday participated in his 2000th game with the New York Yankees, expects to remain in harness for five more years.

The Iron Man, who hasn't missed a contest since he broke in on June 1, 1925, will be 35 years of age June 19.

Those closest to the Ruppert Riffles profess to see indications that Gehrig is slowing down and a by-product of a burning armless able to shake things off then he was before.

There was no sign of the latter in Cleveland, however, when Columbia Lou bounced right back into the thick of things after a lame back forced him to retire in the sixth inning two days earlier.

"Luck," replies Gehrig, when asked about his phenomenon in endurance, but a better explanation is that the longevity of his consecutive-game streak simply is a by-product of a burning armless able to shake things off then he was before.

The PAYOFF

Joe McCarthy still believes Detroit is the club New York will have to beat in the American league.

The manager of the Yankees rates the hopped-up Cleveland Indians ahead of the Boston Red Sox.

"Detroit," says McCarthy, "has too much power to stay down where it is."

"That wallop is going to assert itself before long, and it will be the Tigers we will be battling once we get going and the race gets hot."

"The Indians have good pitching. They are going to be tough, too. Bob Feller is better than he was. He looks like a fine pitcher now. And behind him, Cleveland has a capable pitching staff and a husky punch."

"Bob Grove is off to a great start for Boston, but it isn't in the books for him to go on that way."

"Wait until the weather gets warmer, and the heat begins to take things out of him—when he is going to need more rest."

"Where will the Red Sox be for pitchers then? They haven't got the fellows behind him to keep up. I don't think they'll be as dangerous when the race settles down as they appear now."

"The same thing goes for Washington."

McCarthy contends that no club has had a real opportunity to show to advantage, least of all the Ruppert Riffles, who had nine double-headers piled upon them before they knew it. They grew tired of sitting around on their western trip.

"We haven't had a chance to start yet," explains Marce Joe.

"If our pitchers only get the chance to get straightened out quickly, you'll see that we get better pitching, and more of it, than we have ever had."

"But everybody has needed work. The weather has stymied us."

It also gave Doc Painter an opportunity to show to advantage, least of all the Ruppert Riffles, who had nine double-headers piled upon them before they knew it. They grew tired of sitting around on their western trip.

"We haven't had a chance to start yet," explains Marce Joe.

Friday's Games

Santa Ana at Orange; Huntington Beach at San Bernardino; Whittier at Brea; Irvine at Anaheim.

Playing the best game of the season before the smallest house (only about a hundred paying customers watching the old softball rivals stir it up) Anaheim nosed out Santa Ana, 3 to 2, at the Anaheim city park last night.

A base on balls by Pitcher Stanley Jacobsmeyer forced home what proved to be the deciding run in the fourth inning; otherwise the tussle had close and color, with both clubs loading the bases several times in vain.

Anaheim scored twice in the second inning after Bob Hosack and Rudy Heman singled to start a rally. Ted Neja bunted along the first base line; Mott fielded it and tagged Neja but Neja knocked the ball out of his hand. Hosack scored, Heman reached third and Neja scored. Morales walked, filling the bases with none away. Constock flied to left, Heman scored after the catch. Wallin popped up and Bell grounded out.

Walk Proves Costly

Singles by Seacord, Sauer and B. Hosack jammed the pathways for Anaheim again in the fourth. Heman lined out to Joe Koral but Neja drew a pass, forcing in Seacord. Morales fanned and Constock lofted out.

Santa Ana bunched four clean hits in the fourth yet produced only one run. Lacy hit to center, Hapes blasted a liner past Sauer. Mott forced Lacy at third, Young's line hit to center filled the bases and Manager "Doc" Smith drove another sharp single to center that scored Hapes.

The Stars made it 3-2 in the sixth on Mott's single, Young's out and "Bono" Koral's double.

Best of the other conflicts was played at Irvine, and won by the Beampickers in the tenth inning, 6-5. It was a seamy affair. White bunched four hits with a walk to make three runs in the first of the ninth. Irvine tied the score in its half when, with two out and Horace Sears on first, George (Rube Jr.) Ellis dropped Hodgson's fly to left. In the tenth, Wentzel singled and tallied when Jertberg threw away Cook's grounder.

Twister Stops Orange

With Bob (Lefty) Fowler pitching himself out of difficulty in the pinches, San Bernardino had little trouble stopping Orange, 4-1, with the aid of three Orange errors. The Pony runs all came in one-run spurges. In the ninth Cecil (Lefty) Watson cracked out a synthetic home run that got away from Walt Gunther in deep center.

Huntington Beach turned in the first of its semi-weekly victories at Brea, knocking off the Red Lions, 8-2. Wally Johnson collected his third homer of the season for Brea in the third.

The radio, the telephone and the telegraph are all remarkable methods of transmitting information. Yet there is a "grapevine" that almost equals these great inventions during racing season.

Consider the case of Urge Me, a three-year-old filly that runs in the silks of Urban Plavan, North Main street sportsman.

Plavan purchased Urge Me from Nell S. McCarthy at Santa Anita last winter. Next week the horse took sick. Urge Me was nursed along, finally faced the barrier at Tanforan two weeks ago.

The first time out, Urge Me was 88-1, ran dead last. A week ago, she tried again. The filly finished fourth at 76-1, flattening out in the stretch.

Now you might think that after two such notable failures, Urge Me again would be a long shot. The price figured to be at least 50-1. Urge Me started for the third time yesterday. It looked like a killing. She won. The payoff: $8.40, $5, $3.40.

Plavan talks on the 'phone to his trainer nearly every night. So those close to the Santa Ana know the horse had "worked" well, was ready to go. But how did everybody else in the country get this inside dope?

Bert Collyer, the nationally known handicapper who works out of the east, had Urge Me as his best bet. Wrote Collyer: "Urge Me; you won't have to, matey, because this happens to be the monkey of a jobbie all set to go places and do things in a big way in that initial scamper at Tanforan. . . . Frankly, boys, and while I wouldn't want this to go too far, the chief of staff at the other end has just wig-wagged the signal to me to go full steam ahead."

That's what you call the race track "grapevine." . . . Plavan would like to know more about it.

Incidentally, Plavan is shipping to the Ingewood track Urge Me and his other Santa Ana horse, (Tornillo) which seems to have tailed off a bit since bagging five out of eight in the north.

C.I.F. RULE SAVES BARRON

Coach Reece Greene of Santa Ana high school's crack track team is back from the state meet at Hollister. . . . breathing easier.

As predicted in this column last week, the C. I. F. voted to bar from interschool competition in California all boys 19 years or older. . . . but added a clause that the ruling will not be effective until Sept. 1, 1939.

The reason Coach Greene feels better is that the 1939 provision saves Hurdler Melvin Barron for next year's Saint track team.

No wonder Greene is gleeful. With less than a month's training, Barron ran second in the State meet. His best time is 15.2 seconds.

Next year, Coach Greene visions Barron under 15 flat in the high, best bet. The fourth man on a relay team that won at the state meet. Three members of the present baton squad will be back.

Another C. I. F. rule will help Barron. The Saint star's only weakness seems to be hitting hurdles. He was leading the field at both the Southern Cal. and State meets until he ticked barriers. . . . Next year the C. I. F. will cut the height of hurdles three inches to 39.

He fought every round the same, from the first to the fifteenth. The bell rang. He came out on the run and in a split second was chest to chest with Ross. A right would go. Then a left. Then a jab. Then a hook. Then an upper cut. Then more hooks, more jabs, more uppercuts. And, when it appeared he had thrown all the blows in the book, he would burrow in closer and use his shoulders, elbows, and head.

He was perpetual motion in purple trunks; a buzz-saw with gloves on.

Ross soon wearied. He tried to coast, but there, flailing away at him every second, was the little Negro. Ross would go into a corner. There would be the little Negro. Ross would duck and here would be the little Negro, beating him on every exposed surface. Ross would weave and there, weaving in front of him, would be the little Negro.

Fists. Fists. Fists. Fists. Thousands of them.

That's Armstrong, the new welterweight champion.

blue and ugly lumps. His cheeks were swollen, unsightly. His lips stood out in a bruised pout, and his body was a mass of welts.

As early as the tenth round his condition was such that the referee leaned over the ropes to talk with doctors and the head of the boxing commission.

Had he been a lesser man, a lesser champion, the fight would have been called, the towel thrown in. But the officials sensed, as did the crowd, that here was a champion who preferred to lose his title standing up, even if the finish found him more like a gargyle than a man.

Ross will fight no more. He's through. He told me in his training camp that he would never take but one beating. "Let a guy give it to me—really give me my bumps—and I'll hang up the gloves."

Well, a guy gave it to him last night. The "guy" is named Henry Armstrong, and he is 133 pounds of almost inhuman properties.

I say "inhuman" because a man is not supposed to behave the way Armstrong did last night. He went at a blistering top speed for 15 rounds—and he didn't even sweat. He threw 10,000 punches, and yet when he stood in his corner, ready to come out for the final round, he wasn't even breathing heavily. I know this to be true, because the night was cold and I could see his breath in the frosty air. It was a regular as that of a man who had walked only a block or two at a brisk pace.

He gave you the impression of being more a machine than a man. "Cut his veins," I heard one

EPSON, England—(UP)—Peter Beatty's Bois Roussel today won the 15th running of the Derby, bringing a fortune of some $50,000 to its owner, and determining the distribution of millions of dollars in sweepstakes prizes all over the world.

James V. Rank's Scottish Union was second and the favorite, Harvey Morris's Pasch was third. Lord Astor's Pound Foolish was fourth. Twenty-two ran.

King George, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, accompanied by other members of the royal family, saw the race from the royal box while hundreds of thousands of their subjects looked on from costly grandstand seats, from bus tops and along the railings of the grass track. Estimates of the crowd varied from 500,000 to 1,000,000.

Heavy rain fell throughout the race. The winner, off to a bad start, gained rapidly half-way around and finished strong to pay its backers 20 to 1. Scottish Union closed at 8 to 1. Pasch at 9 to 4.

Bois Roussel, gaining speed on the uphill stretch to the wire, finished four lengths ahead. Scottish Union had two lengths over Pasch. The time for the mile and a half and five yards was 2:33 1-5. That mark, because of the heavy going, was well off the record of 2:33 4-5 set by the Aga Khan's Mahmood in 1936.

Two American-owned entries were out of the money. Unbreakable, owned by Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia, finished eighth, while Valerian III, owned by William Woodward of New York, was back with the slower also-rans.

GEHRIG PLAYS 2000TH GAME

NEW YORK—(UP)—Thirteen years ago today the late Miller Huggins looked down the Yankee bench and motioned to a raw recruit to go in and pinch hit.

The young busher just up from Hartford slashed out a single, and the next day he replaced Wally Pipp at first base in the Yanks' lineup. Since then Lou Gehrig has played every day—aches or pains, sick or well. In that time he's played 2000 consecutive games, more than any other player in history. Today he is ready to play No. 2001 and he says he isn't going to stop until he makes it 2500.

Long ago Gehrig broke the previous mark of 1307 set by "Deacon" Scott—a record which once seemed beyond approach. In 7455 times at bat, Gehrig has made 2559 hits, scored 1785 runs, hit 468 home runs, driven in 1897 runs and has a lifetime major league batting average of .343.

Take a rest?—Gehrig laughs at the suggestion.

"I like to play baseball and I'm going to keep on as long as I can do my job. I wouldn't think of sitting on the bench."

Gehrig clicked off No. 2000 yesterday as the Yanks came from behind to knock off the Boston Red Sox, 12-5, and sweep a three-game series in the only major league game. He went to bat 4 times, hit a single in the eighth to drive in a run and handles 14 chances perfectly afield.

Following the main event, Yukon Jake and Tony Morelli, who had their purses held up last week for causing a near-riot, will wrestle to a "finish" for their impounded money. Promoter "Bud" Levin said that, inasmuch as the trouble last week started over the referee, he had requested the boxing commission to assign a new man here.

In the semi-windup, Marshall Carter tangles with Pat O'Brien in one-hour affair. The feature preliminary brings together Ken Holles and Jack Lipscomb. The curtain raiser features a 30-minute match between "Flash" Kelly of Washington and Jo-Jo, the Brazilian Pinhead.

L. A. BOY AFTER THIRD CROWN: ROSS RETIRES

By LESLIE AVERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — (UP) — Barney Ross demonstrated last night that he has a yard of moxie for each inch of his height and today, perfectly contented, he retired from the ring to enter the cloak and suit business.

He had promised himself that he would take only one beating and he took one from hammerin' Henry Armstrong last night that in sheer brutality could hardly be equaled in the professional ring or out.

The 28,000 spectators in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl saw Ross whipped from the third round on; he was helpless, his body and head were blood-soaked. But at the end of the 15th round, he still was on his feet, and, moreover, his leaden arms were trying pathetically to carry blows to the man who had butchered him.

Fans Want It Stopped

The horror of what was happening was reflected in the faces of the spectators. From the 11th round on, they were screaming to Referee Art Donovan to stop it. Toward the end, the screams were hysterical—not the cries of sports fans, but of men and women profoundly moved by a spectacle of human suffering so intense that they could feel the pain of each blow as if it was striking them.

Ross, 28, a wealthy man, who in nine years in the professional ring has met and defeated the best and who was, until he met a younger and better fighting man, welterweight champion, was a gracious but proud gladiator in defeat.

"I am through," he said through lips that looked like raw beef. "I lost to a better man. I have no alibis."

No photographers were permitted near him. He did not wish his horribly beaten face preserved for posterity.

New Worlds For Henry

A year ago Ross beat up Jimmy McLarnin and took his title. McLarnin announced his retirement through his battered lips and Ross, overjoyed with victory, talked about the men he was going to lick in the future. That little drama was repeated today, for, as Ross nursed his lumps, the victor, Armstrong, 25-year-old Negro who in three years of a professional career has made himself both featherweight and welterweight champion, looked forward jubilantly to the new worlds he intends to conquer.

By winning last night, he won a match with Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion, which is scheduled for July 26. Hammerin' Henry intends then to become the first man champion of three divisions simultaneously.

"I had one of the easiest fights in my career," he said. "I expect Ambers to be tougher because he's harder to get at."

Perfect Machine

Armstrong demonstrated last night what everyone had known before—that pound for pound he is one of the greatest fighting men of all time. He set a terrific pace from the first round to the last; he never ceased throwing punches, he never slowed, he was the perfect fighting machine.

Ross' pride was the prime ingredient of his torture. He had never been knocked out and he intended to end his career on his feet. He had made his manager, Sam Pien, swear by everything he held sacred that he would never, under any circumstance, throw a towel into a ring where he was fighting. To close every avenue, he had objected to Donovan as referee, alleging that Donovan had favored McLarnin in one of their fights. Donovan, usually tenderhearted, inclined to stop a fight when anyone is being hurt badly, left it to Ross to decide when he had had enough.

Nothing To Fear

"I found out in the first round that Ross didn't have his old punch," Armstrong said. "With nothing to fear, all I had to do was slow him up as quick as I could. He never hurt me once, though I did hurt myself when a

BACA BATTERS O'CONNELL FOR EASY VICTORY

Fernie Baca, tough little Ontario battler, gave Charley O'Connell the boxing lesson of his short but eventful career at the Orange County Athletic club last night.

O'Connell, tough and willing, found out at the opening bell that he had picked a tough baby for himself when he ran into a barrage of steaming gloves applied to the head and chin with such amazing skill that he promptly jumped on his bicycle. During the four rounds he ran 40 miles, more or less, in reverse, with Baca pursuing him around the ring like Henry Armstrong after Barney Ross.

Baca knocked O'Connell flat on three occasions and only the bell saved O'Connell from being knocked out at the end of the third. Charley managed to stay on his pins through the fourth only by clinching and holding on for dear life. Baca took all four rounds.

Tommy O'Connell, Charley's big brother, slugged his way to an easy victory over Noel Mackey, but received such a razzing from the fans over his cocky tactics that he nearly lost his head on one occasion when he stopped fighting to answer the ringside hecklers.

Charlie Stone, Fullerton Jaycee's pride and joy, outpointed dusky Johnnie Norris, in a haymaker duel that had the customers on their feet. Merced gained a decided early edge. He slowed up in the fourth to drop the decision to the more rugged Ontario boy.

Sal Baca battered "Chuck" Wilcox unmercifully to win by a technical K. O. In the third, Jackie Johnson, colored, felled Santa Ana's Dick Munoz in the second. Joe Gomez staged a fourth round rally to decision Hy Goodwin, a colored clown. Bert Duran outpointed M. Calderon in the curtain raiser.

Santa Ana City league favorites had their way again last night at the Municipal Bowl as Montgomery Ward bested M. E. South, 4-1, and Alliance Mutual Life conquered Treesweet Products, 4-2.

Ring the bell three times in the fourth inning, Montgomery Ward's Ben Byland, Rod Smiley and "Whitey" Mann all crossed the plate. Louis Collins' double scored Smiley and Mann. Byland tallied on an error. The Wardmen made their final run in the fifth, when Maurice Young scampered home on Mann's single.

Left Slaback was credited with M. E. South's lone counter. He tallied on Roy Currutt's infield hit. Ed Bristow, Montgomery Ward slasher, allowed the churchmen only three hits. Slaback and Currutt touched him for singles and "Chuck" Hill connected for a double in the sixth.

Alliance Mutual Life pecked away at Treesweet Products in the second game, scoring one in the first, one in the second and two in the fifth, while the insurance firm's hurler, Kratz, was limiting Treesweet to five hits.

Baseball is Serious Business With Gehrig

Naturally, in the beginning Gehrig didn't have the slightest idea of breaking the consecutive-game mark.

"But I was in deadly earnest," he explains.

"Baseball was much more than a pastime to me. It was a serious business.

"My people were very poor. My early life was denied the luxuries and many of the comforts that kids nowadays seem to take for granted.

"No player ever welcomed the opportunity to get money quickly more eagerly than I did. It was strictly up to me to make the most of my time in the game.

Hagen Among Victims As 'Open' Field Cut

NEW YORK — (UP) — A familiar name—Walter Hagen, the swashbuckling, weather beaten "Hag" who won the U. S. Open title in 1914 and 1919—was missing for one of the few times today as the field for the 42nd Open golf championship was trimmed down to 180 players who will participate in the tournament proper June 9-11 at the Cherry Hills club in Denver.

Hagen, just back from a year's world tour with Joe Kirkwood, the Philadelphia trick-shot artist, was the major casualty yesterday as 102 professionals and 39 amateurs gained 141 valuable places in qualifying rounds held in 31 sections of the country. A field of 1194 players shot 36 holes for those places. Hagen tried to qualify at San Francisco.

A total of 170 players is now eligible for the championship — 131 pros and 39 amateurs. The other 29 included those among the low 30 and ties from last year who chose to participate this year—there were only 28 who entered—along with Harold Long, the Cherry Hills "home pro".

In the New York area the failures included Craig Wood, who tied for the British Open title in 1933 and then lost a playoff to Denny Shute; Jess Sweetser, 1926 British Amateur champion; T. Sufferin Tailer, Walker Cup alternate this year and Henry Cluel, prominent New York pro.

Others who failed to qualify were Ted Turner, Pine Valley, N. J., professional, Don Moe of Portland and Harry Givan, Seattle, both former Walker Cup stars; Paul Mangrum, Joe Ezar, Fay Coleman and Les Madison of Los Angeles; Jack Emery, Detroit; Wiffy Cox and Fred Haag, sr., of New Orleans, father of Freddie Haag, who plays this week at St. Andrews, Scotland, on the American Walker Cup team.

The qualifiers were paced by Jack Westland, an amateur, who shot a 137 at Seattle. Westland was a Walker Cup player in 1932 and 1934.

The field will include: Exempt — Ralph Guldahl, Sam Snead, Bobby Cruikshank; Harry Cooper; Ed Dudley; Al Brosch; Clarence Clark, Henry Picard, Gene Sarazen, Denny Shute, Ray Mangrum, Paul Runyan, Billy Burke, Jimmy Demaret, Sam Parks, Jr., Pat Sawyer, Victor Ghezzi, Jimmy Hines, Ky Laffoon, Harold McSpadden, Fred Morrison, Byron Nelson, Bob Stuppel, Frank Walsh, Leo Mallory, Toney Penna, Johnny Revolta and Jimmy Thomson.

The sectional qualifiers include: Chicago — Horst Smith, Dick Metz, Avelard G. M. Espinosa, Lawson Little, Tommy Armour, San Francisco — Mark Fry, Arthur L. Doering, Jr.; Joe Kirkwood, Phoenix, Ariz.—Willie Low, Portland, Ore.—Al Zimmerman; Emory Zimmerman.

Seattle — Jack Westland, Albert E. Campbell.

Los Angeles—Olin Dutra, Charley Lacey, George Von Elm, Willie Hunter, Fred Clark, Jr.

Detroit — Joe Eklund, Emerick Kocis, Al Watrous, Mortie Dutra, Longmeadow, Mass.—Tony Manero, Jim Turnesa, Bill Holt.

New York — Willie MacFarlane, Mike Turnesa.

possible to prolong a consecutive-game streak such as the Iron Man had compiled, but not Gehrig, who has yet to pull a punch—at bat, on the bases, or in the field.

Gehrig has his own training theories, too.

The Yankees were playing exhibition games when Gehrig reported the last two springs, and Columbia Lou hopped right into them.

"Night as well get sore and be done with it," he beams.

One reason for the longevity of his consecutive-game streak, Gehrig believes, is the fact that he relaxes completely immediately following each game.

He sits in his sweaty uniform for from 15 to 30 minutes, smoking a pipe or perhaps a cigar. He may take a bottle of beer. He gives tired nerves and muscles a chance.

Other players, he points out, always seem to have an early date downtown. They undress hurriedly . . . take quick showers. This is not only likely to tie them up, but they risk catching cold.

But the principal reason why Henry Louis Gehrig has played his 200th consecutive game is that his early enthusiasm became a habit, and it remains so today—in this, his 16th season in professional baseball.

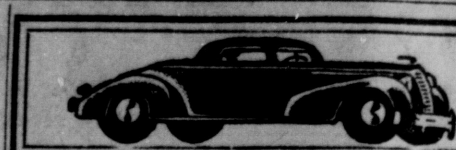

NEXT: Are the Yankees cracking up with Lou Gehrig?

Sporty Costume And Car Ideal For Summer

Sporty—that's the word for this Nash Cabriolet which is proving so popular with the younger set now that the outdoor season has definitely arrived. Attractive Miss Georgie-Lou Gage, talented young amateur dramatic star, shows exceptionally good taste not only in her choice of the sleek La Fayette, but also in her very practical sports outfit.

WEST COAST HIGHWAY BARRIER TO OLD MEXICO IS CONQUERED

The Barrancas, last obstacle to automobile travel between here and Mexico City, have been conquered by road builders and cars are already going through. This great International Pacific Highway development makes it possible for motorists to drive down the west coast via Nogales and return up the east coast through Laredo, or vice versa, making a grand circle trip of the old land of romance.

For the present the west coast route is passable only in dry weather, and still rough and difficult in many places, with construction under way. But the most serious barrier has been cut and completion will follow. It's import to Southern California is tremendous both from the touring and commercial standpoints.

Longest Highway
The inter-continental highway, longest on earth, extending from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, is expected to make this the center for the enormous potential trade of the Latin-American republics. vast undeveloped resources, mineral and agricultural, will be opened by it in Mexico, including a generously watered domain fertile as the Valley of the Nile.

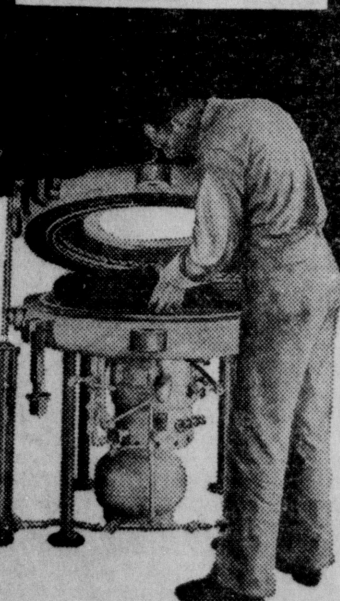

The Barrancas, comprising three deep parallel and closely adjacent gorges, lie between Portezuelo and La Quemada, north of Guadalajara, and presented a formidable eight-mile problem. Word of their subjugation has just been received by Henry W. Keller, vice president of the Automobile Club of Southern California and chairman of its highway committee, with the further information that motor passenger and freight service through the region will immediately be established.

Officials Assist
Keller has been instrumental in bringing about the Mexican highway progress, making special trips to Mexico City and enlisting the active support of officials and commercial and industrial leaders and practically committing the government to putting the west coast link through. President Cardenas and the governors of the western Mexican states are a powerful influence, financially and otherwise, in furthering the enterprise.

The Automobile club conceived the 13,000-mile International Pacific Highway.

NASH CABRIOLET IS POPULAR SPORT CAR

Summer sport enthusiasts are finding in the Nash cabriolet a car well suited to all their outdoor requirements, according to R. W. Townsend, Nash dealer at 319 West Fifth street.

The sleek lines and deluxe appointments of this model are proving extremely popular with the younger set, Townsend commented yesterday. Just a few minutes to fold back the convertible top, stack the tennis rackets and golf clubs in the spacious rear compartment, and off for a day of fun and recreation. And what could be more enjoyable than driving along the beach with the top down, absorbing sunshine and fresh air to your heart's content.

Attractive Miss Georgie-Lou Gage, talented young amateur dramatic star, finds this model ideal for her many outdoor sports activities and declares it handles more easily than any car she has ever driven.

The cabriolet comes equipped with all those deluxe features that make a Nash such a pleasure to drive, said Townsend, including "sea-legs" shock absorbers to eliminate sideway, automatic gear shift, cruising gear, double frame construction, oversize hydraulic brakes; and the two-toned upholstery is made to harmonize with the color of the car.

PARK ROAD IMPROVED

THE difference between a democracy and a dictatorship is not a matter of constitution, parliaments, elections, or a liberal suffrage. Russia, Germany, Italy, and Japan have all these things. The difference lies in the right of the people to oppose their government, to express their own opinions in free speech and through a free press, to change the laws and to elect or defeat candidates for public office. In all of these things there is one essential implement. Only where there is freedom of the press can there be freedom of the people. Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.—Mutterings: Wonder where screen mamas buy those ridiculous costumes they force their kids to wear? Height of something or other: the factious publicity about Patricia Ellis' third arrest for speeding—in a town where traffic claims a thousand lives annually. Someone ought to tell Ray Milland that this business of saving money can be carried too far. Growl: when Hollywood is overrun with shapely ladies, why must it be the human hippos and the human giraffes who parade the Boulevard in shorts?

With four "I-dos" and one "I-will" to her credit, Kay Francis is my idea of an experienced bride. Silly notion: Walter Brennan in a Little Lord Fauntleroy suit. Will someone please tell me why an actor as capable as Peter Lorre is wasted on "Mr. Moto" parts. Hit and run notion: to invite Louise Hovick to be guest of honor at a local burlesque house which is now offering six striptease dancers.

Reportorial ambition: to interview the late Jesse James and ask him what he thinks of Tyrone Power as his screen prototype. Frantic urge: to swipe Adolphe Menjou's clothes when he is taking a Turkish bath — and leave a pair of overalls in their place. What diabolical fun it would be to slip one of those distorted mirrors into Marlene Dietrich's dressing room! Imaginable hilarious evening: Listening to Roscoe Ates trying to say "Federal Communications Commission."

Phoned one of the bigger studios today and asked permission to show a friend around the lot. Hollywood, just now, is not cordial to casual visitors and the studio received the request with a marked lack of enthusiasm. "This set is closed . . . that company isn't working . . . this other company may go on location," I was told. "All right," I said, "but my friend is a big shot in the income tax division and he has to go back to Washington soon—" "Income tax division?" the voice from the studio cut in excitedly. "Bring him out, bring him out. We can break into that closed set and there's lots going on out here that ought to interest him." In the land of the fabulous salaries they have a tremendous respect for the collectors of fabulous taxes.

Darned ingenious, these movie makers. On the "Showdown" set the other day, Jimmy Stewart, playing the part of a doughboy, was supposed to accept a ride in Margaret Sullivan's limousine and while talking, deftly roll a cigarette. After half an hour's fumbling with paper and tobacco, Stewart had proved nothing except that he would never learn to roll a cigarette. Stewart was fussed; the director was impatient. But the prop boy saved the day with a suggestion. They will use the first "take"—as a comedy scene.

Latin names are so frequent in Hollywood's roster of stars that they have become a little commonplace. To make the name of George Rigaud, handsome and athletic importation from the Argentine, stand out, the Paramount brain trust decided to bill him as just "Rigaud." Publicly went out and he began to receive fan mail. Within a day he was given back his Christian name. The first five letters asked for patterns—the authors imagined "Rigaud" was a dressmaker.

Today's best chuckle: Seems M-G-M. after a publicity department pow-wow, decided that Myrna Loy, being their top-notch office start, must have more publicity. One of the lads promptly telephoned and asked if a studio photographer could come to her home in order to take color stills of her in the flower garden. "Be dressed in something frilly, and wear one of those wide brimmed hats," he instructed. Myrna balked. "Listen," said she, "you can make all the pictures you want of me and my garden but you can't dictate what I wear when I'm on my own land. I'll wear my usual garden clothes." When the photographer arrived she greeted him—in blue denim overalls and checked shirt.

One of the finest names in films returned to Hollywood recently from a trip to Europe. At a party in her honor, another guest asked, "Of course, when you were in Paris you went out to Versailles?" "Versailles . . . Versailles," puzzled the big name as she tried to recall the forgotten—that's the place we got the best French kings to her mind. Then she beamed happily. "Oh yeah, that's the place we got the best dish of ham and eggs we had in all Europe."

P. T. A. Council To Outline Agenda

An outline of the year's program will be drafted at the meeting of the executive board of the Santa Ana Parent Teachers' association council at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at Lincoln school, 1415 French street.

Mrs. James Givens, president of the council, requested that all presidents of associations bring out lines of the next year's work.

Decastro Earl Mayer, 42, convicted habit criminal, and his 73-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith, pleaded not guilty yesterday afternoon to charges of first degree murder in the hammer slaying of James Eugene Bennett, 35-year-old Naval officer, near Seattle 10 years ago.

After Capt. Don Wilkie of Laguna Beach announced to The Register May 5 that he had obtained confession from Mrs. Smith more than 10 months ago through an assistant who acted as a minister, entered the state prison at Walla Walla, Wash., where both mother and son have been incarcerated and gained her confidence and the confession, both confessed to Washington officials.

Confessions Repudiated
Then, in their pleas yesterday before Presiding Superior Judge Robert M. Jones at Seattle, they repudiated the confessions. They are accused of killing Bassett because Mayer needed the Bassett automobile in his work.

According to allegations of Captain Wilkie, Mrs. Smith confessed that her son killed three other persons during the past 18 or 19 years. Although Mrs. Smith led detectives to a house in Seattle recently to show them where parts of the victim's body were concealed, the places she pointed out failed to yield the gruesome evidence.

YOUNG MAN HELD TO ANSWER IN COURT

Wesley G. Smith, 20, resident of Harbor boulevard near Fifth street, arrested by Santa Ana police Saturday and held on charges he is a suspected fictitious checks to eight local business houses, and at least one each in Huntington Beach and Garden Grove, was held to answer to superior court when he faced Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday and pleaded guilty.

Smith was charged in two complaints only and pleaded guilty on but two counts, those which alleged he issued bad checks to Orson Hunter of Santa Ana and Glen Dufel of Garden Grove. Smith, who assertedly used a score of aliases in issuing the checks, records show, is on probation from one where he was sent after conviction on burglary charges.

County Radio Hookups Planned

As the county supervisors late yesterday ratified the appointment of Franklin Cosner as fifth radio operator at the county police radio station, Chairman Willard Smith outlined proposals for direct wire radio hookups between the county station and various police departments of the county.

The costs of such direct wires, through which police departments will broadcast to their own patrol cars, without necessity for sending their messages through the county radio, were stated by Smith to be $56 per month each for Fullerton, Newport Beach and Huntington Beach departments, and $13 per month for Orange.

Smith's explanation was made for the benefit of Supervisor Harry Riley, of Anaheim, who has been absent in the East for several weeks, during which time the radio proposal came before the board.

If the 11 judges of the Great Sanhedrin, supreme Hebrew tribunal, rendered a quick verdict of guilty, the defendant was acquitted because it was believed that such a decision showed either conspiracy or a lack of calm deliberation.

Among fish, salmon are old at 14, trout seldom exceed 30, eels may reach 40, while carp live half a century.

Grotesque — But Effective

In their relentless battle against a smoldering blaze which, for 54 years, has been burning out the underground wealth of coal fields near New Straitsville, Ohio, the 300 or more WPA fire-fighters equip themselves as shown above to meet explosive and poisonous gas hazards. The picture is labeled to indicate the various safety devices worn by members of the crew. So effective has the fire-fighting proved been that the disastrous inferno, started by a mine firing during an 1884 strike, is almost under control.

MOVE TO MAKE S. A. QUARTERS OF STATE BOARD IS POSTPONED

On a "get acquainted" visit to Santa Ana, William G. Bonelli, Southern California member of the state board of equalization, appeared yesterday as special guest of local tax collectors and liquor control officers of the board of equalization at a dinner in Daniger's.

His original plan after his selection as a member of the board of equalization to represent eight southern counties, was to make Santa Ana headquarters for a new district but it was understood the move has been indefinitely postponed.

Other Guests Here
This district still is comprised of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, with headquarters at San Bernardino and branch offices here and in Riverside.

At present, the local office is in charge of James Taylor as tax collector for the gas and truck tax, and head of the local auditing for the board, while Ted Wallace is in charge of liquor control for the same office, covering the county.

W. C. Shay, administrator for this district and Chief Liquor Control Officer, Tom Collins for the same district, both of San Bernardino, were guests here yesterday when Bonelli appeared. It was Bonelli's first appearance here since his appointment to the board.

He is in charge of districts comprising Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Imperial, Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. The local office employs 13 persons, many of whom were able to attend the dinner for their chief.

Postmaster Frank Harwood placed all blame for late dispatch of mail today at the door of his assistant Flake Smith. The reason being that Flake is a grandson.

The mother is the former Medora Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flake Smith and the father is son of Tom Talbert, former county supervisor and later mayor of Huntington Beach.

The mother and son are reported as doing well.

Postmaster Harwood said Flake also was doing as well as could be expected.

Cherry Festival To Open June 9

Beaumont's seventh annual Cherry Festival will be held from June 9 to 12, inclusive. It was stated here today by W. A. Brazie, Beaumont's Chamber of Commerce secretary.

In contacting Howard I. Wood, Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce secretary, Brazie said that as usual, an industrial exhibit and carnival will be held along with the regular program. No admission will be charged for the festival.

As outlined in Lyskate's etiquette books, rules for table etiquette in the 17th century included: Wipe spoon after eating and do not leave it on dish; do not drop sauce or soup over clothes; do not fill spoon too full; do not bring dirty knives to table; do not pick teeth.

NEALLEY AND BEEMAN FETED

Appreciation of Santa Ana Junior College for the years of service performed by L. L. Beeman and E. M. Nealley was expressed last night at a banquet in Ebell clubhouse for which 150 Jaycee faculty members, students and alumni assembled. Recent announcement that both Beeman and Nealley would retire from the college faculty prompted the expression of gratitude.

Seated before banquet tables which had been decorated with bouquets of maidenhair fern and pansies in long narrow containers, guests were served. The Peacock room, which served as a banquet hall, was decorated with bouquets of larkspur and other spring flowers.

High Tributes Paid
Presiding over the program which followed dinner was D. K. Hammond, junior college director. He spoke on highlights of the two honor guests' lives at Jaycee and contributions they had made to the institution. Tributes were paid by Otto Grigg, president of the alumni association and Dick Phillips, past president of Associated Students. The latter had the privilege of presenting a gift of $25 to each of the honor guests with instruction that they should be used to purchase books. W. M. Clayton of the high school was another speaker of the evening.

Boodin Gives Address
Principal address for the occasion was delivered by Dr. J. E. Boodin, head of the philosophy department at U.C.L.A. and a lifelong friend of Nealley. At the evening's close brief acknowledgments were given by Nealley and Mr. Beeman.

Music during the dinner hour was provided by the junior college string trio, Miss Edna Walker, Messrs. Jack Lighthart and Kenneth Aklin.

This banquet came as Nealley completes his 21st year here and Beeman his 17th year.

Committees in charge of the affair were D. K. Hammond, Miss Lillian Dickson and Mesdames Robert Northross, Wayne Bartholomew and John A. Tessman.

"BUILD NEW COURTHOUSE," IS S. A. TOASTMASTERS' VERDICT

Political discussion took the major interest at Century Toastmasters club when Dwight Hamilton, topic master, proposed as the subject for discussion that candidates for public office should be obliged to undergo an examination to show their fitness to hold offices for which they aspire.

Held In Murder

Arrested after he boasted to friends that he had killed William S. Brown, president of the Minneapolis General Drivers' Union, Arnold Johnson, top organizer for the same union, faces a charge of murder. Police said Johnson had signed a confession that he shot Brown to death as he sat in his car, because of disagreement over union funds. Brown's body is shown in the lower photo.

ROSS RECEIVES PRISON TERM

Lecil E. Ross, former Santa Ana court reporter, late yesterday was given a three-year prison term and fined $1000 by Federal Judge Ralph Jenney, of Los Angeles, on his conviction of sending obscene photographs and letters through the mails.

"This is an extremely serious offense and not one that merits probation," the judge said in imposing the heavy sentence.

Employer Lawyer
Ross, who conducted his own defense in two trials—he was acquitted on a charge of receiving obscene literature through the mails—said he had employed R. M. Cruickshank, Santa Ana lawyer, to represent him on an appeal which he planned to take to the circuit court.

He said he would file appeal bond.

Evening Of Fun Set For Elks And Guests Saturday

An evening of fun and merry-making is the schedule for the Santa Ana Elks at their Spring Beneficent party Saturday night, in their club rooms on North Sycamore street.

This affair is open to Elks and their friends and there will be modern dancing with Les Thuet and his sophisticated swing band in the ball room, while old time dancing with Earl Lentz and his band will be in order on the main floor.

For "the fun part of the evening," the basement of the club has been converted into a game parlor, with all the usual devices for entertaining the public, outstanding being the bicycle races on treadmills. This is a device that has been patented by Henry's Cycle shop as a health apparatus. Each bicycle is controlled by an electric speedometer giving the distance of the race and the time in which it is made. There will be four machines on treadmills, so that competition between riders will be keen.

If the entire sky were filled with full moons, the light received would amount to only one-fifth that we receive from the sun.

Party Guests Present Linen Gifts To Surprised Honoree

Miss Glennis Chittick, fiancée of Everett Hurd, was inspiration for a surprise linen shower given Tuesday evening when Mrs. Wallace O'Brien was hostess in her home, 1419 West First street. The bride-elect is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Chittick, 1115 South Garney street, and Mr. Hurd is son of the C. B. Hurd, 1717 Spurgeon street.

Guests spent the greater part of the time making a scrapbook depicting the romance and life story of the engaged girl. Prettyly wrapped packages for Miss Chittick were placed on a table overhung with a pink umbrella from which graceful streamers showered.

White cakes adorned with pink wedding bells were served with ice cream and coffee. A pink and white theme was observed in decorative details.

In the group with the hostess, Mrs. O'Brien were Miss Chittick and Mesdames R. J. Chittick, C. B. Hurd, Clifford Popp, Kenneth Ulrich, B. C. Tolliver, Vern Anthony, Midge Crowe, Lynn Pierce and the Misses Evelyn Reid, Bernice Stoner, Fern Stoner.

Son's Fiancee Is Honored By Party Hostess

Charmingly complimenting Miss Jane Wight of this city, fiancée of her son, Robert McFarren, was a tea given as one of the pleasant social events of the holidays, in the Anaheim home of Mrs. N. D. McFarren.

Miss Wight, daughter of Mrs. Belle Wight, 1002 Halladay street, and Mr. McFarren are to be wedded in the near future. Mrs. McFarren had planned a delightful afternoon during which she distributed tea towels for guests to them for the future bride's linen shelves. Another thought was given to her life as a home-maker in the collection of recipes, each guest contributing one of her favorites.

The tea hour was given special charm, for the lace-spread table presented a dainty bridal scene with tiny bride and groom posed beneath a canopy of flowers flanked by slim green tapers. It was succeeded by a surprise feature when Miss Wight was showered with pretty linens by the guests.

Mrs. McFarren had the assistance of her daughter, Miss Patty McFarren, in all details of the afternoon. Their guests included with Miss Wight and her mother, Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Harry G. Huffman, Mrs. F. A. McFarren, Mrs. Claude McFarren, Miss Lenore McFarren, Mrs. John Neilson, Santa Ana; Mrs. John Cluley, Miss Betty Jean Cluley, Mrs. W. M. Bridge, the game of the evening, brought prizes to Mrs. Walter Limbaugh and Mrs. Ray Wolven, who held the two highest scores. Mrs. Bramley observed a rosebud theme in details of the refreshments, which included French pastries of floral design with ice cream and strawberries. Sunny yellow roses centered tables. The bride-elect wore a formal gown of blue and white organza, while Mrs. Harris was in printed plique. Fillets of gardenias and roses which each wore in her hair, were gifts of Mr. Conlisk. Flowers brightening the rooms were from the home gardens of Mrs. William McGee and Mrs. Alma Ranum.

Assisting during the afternoon were the bride's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Eva Vaughan and Mrs. Dora Warner, and Miss Cornelia Palmer. Tea was poured by the Misses Eunice Spicer and Eleanor Morilla, who presided at silver urns. Spread with a Venetian lace cloth, the table was centered by pale pink gladioluses and snapdragons on a mirror plateau reflecting the glow of tapers.

Beginners and junior students were introduced on this occasion and showed their proficiency by playing a program representing the work of such composers as Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Grieg, Tschalkowsky and Schumann. Luncheon Pays Honor To Past Ebell Leaders

Those prominent Ebell society members who in past years have served the organization as president, shared a pleasant reunion late the past week, when Mrs. J. R. Medlock, founder of the society, and Mrs. C. F. Crose entertained at luncheon in the Medlock home, 820 North Main street.

Their daughters, Mrs. Fred C. Rowland, herself a past president, and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, a prominent worker in the organization especially as member of the program committee, assisted in all phases of the hospitality. Among other things, they arranged the long table where guests were grouped for the luncheon hour, garlanding it with white, perennial sweet peas mingled with fluffy little blossoms in tones of mauve and orchid.

During the afternoon members heard with pleasure, details recounted by Mrs. S. W. Nau, of her recent trip to Florida which she and Mr. Nau experienced. Later all went to the famous old Medlock home, the one where the Ebell society was organized forty-four years ago. This stately old home has since been moved from its original site on North Main street, to North Sycamore street and is occupied by the Lloyd Chenoweths. Past presidents were cordially welcomed, and Mrs. Chenoweth's sister, Mrs. John Fletcher of San Francisco, joined in receiving them.

Two of the past leaders who have not met with the organization for some time because of illness, were accorded special welcome. Mrs. W. L. Grubb and Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson. Others present with Mrs. Medlock and Mrs. Crose were Mesdames Samuel M. Davis, Edward M. Nealley, A. J. Cruickshank, S. W. Nau, J. E. Owen, W. Stanley, Robert G. Tuthill, Paul Bailey and P. C. Rowland, with Mrs. Gustlin. Absent members of the "charms" circle were Mesdames John Clarkson, F. C. Coulter and C. V. Davis, with the present president, Mrs. W. S. Thomson.

Padua Hills Luncheon Is Given By Mrs. F. C. Rowland

That friendly gesture which retiring Ebell president extend to the board members who have longed with them during their official reigns, was made yesterday by Mrs. Fred C. Rowland, who served for two years as leader of Santa Ana Ebell society before the present president, Mrs. W. S. Thomson, took over duties of the position.

Mrs. Rowland's long illness at the conclusion of her final year in office, made it necessary for her to defer the friendly hospitality last year when she completed her term. But interest in her hospital-ity has not waned, and made the event of yesterday a doubly enjoyable one. It was a unique affair planned by the hostess for her chosen Padua Hills as scene of her entertaining.

All those who had served on her board during her two years in office were invited to share the day, together with one special guest, Mrs. John Fletcher of San Francisco, now visiting her brother-in-law and sister, the Lloyd Chenoweths.

The quaint Mexican atmosphere of Padua Hills, the music and dancing provided by the clever young people of the staff, and a leisurely afternoon spent among the delightful shops made it a day long to be remembered. One of the special courtesies extended such groups, is recognition of birthday anniversaries. As it changed there were no celebrants among Mrs. Rowland's guests, so she asked that the honor be paid her successor, Mrs. Thomson. When the quaintly charming song was sung in the latter's honor, she was given a copy with the English translation so that all might understand the song even though they knew no Spanish.

Tri-Sonic Group Meets In Chandler Home

Welcoming Tri-Sonic club members to their home, 1116 Louise street, Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Chandler, added a pleasant evening of bridge to the list of parties enjoyed by this group from the city's three Blue lodges in Masonry.

Contract play which followed yielded prizes to Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Dennis with highest combined scores; Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Reid, second high; and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Coulson, low. They were playing in competition with their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, Messrs. and Mesdames A. H. Allen, Lee, Boyle, J. E. McWilliams, Louis Braasch, H. C. Departure for East
Preceded by Party

Mrs. O. P. Jones was hostess at a "whatnot" shower recently when she honored her houseguest, Mrs. Horace Greeley of New York City, who since has left for the north and the homeward trip by way of Canadian Rockies. She and Mr. Greeley were visitors in this city.

The party took place in the Jones home, 1502 Louise street, where decorations stressed a California Spanish theme which won so much favor with Mrs. Greeley. Mrs. Charles Briner, Mrs. Charles Hoff and Mrs. George McConnell received prizes in games of the afternoon.

Tiny potted cacti were favors appointing trays used in serving refreshments. Aiding the hostess was Mrs. L. E. Coffman.

Mrs. Jones' guests were the honoree, Mrs. Greeley and Meadames L. E. Coffman, James Richards, Roscoe Moore, Wells Brown, Charles Hoff, Frank Cannon, Homer Lindley, George McConnell, Joseph Kelly, James Smith, Charles Briner, Elton Nichols, Louis White, Paul J. Pietsch and Miss Edna Ingham.

When uncertain of the age and tenderness of a roasting chicken it is best to play safe and casserole it. This contributed recipe is the favorite way of a reader who knows this little trick, too.

Chicken Baked in Milk
A medium sized roasting or stewing chicken, cut in pieces. Roll sections in seasoned flour and brown in butter. Lay the browned pieces in a buttered baking dish, dot with cold butter, sprinkle a little bit of flour over pieces, and pour in 1 quart of fresh milk. Cover pan tightly and bake two hours or until the chicken is tender enough to cut with a fork. Remove cover and brown chicken lightly during the last half hour of cooking.

If I were doing chicken this way, I would like to add minced chives and parsley, or minced green onions and parsley. Still better, when fresh basil is available, season with a tablespoon of chopped basil.

The reason why so many women stay fat lies in their inability "to take it." They start a diet with loud cheers, but the first time they really get hungry, the diet goes into the discard. Don't always be a waver and a weak sister. You need not suffer when you use our Safe and Sane diet, because it gives you all the food you can eat, yet you will lose weight on it if you stick right to the rules. Write for a copy, no charge, just enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

RECIPES

Custard-Filled Spice Layer Cake

2-3 cup soft butter creamed with

1 cup white sugar until waxy.

1 unbeaten egg

1-2 teaspoon allspice

1 heaping teaspoon cinnamon

1 cup sour cream

1 rounded teaspoon soda, sifted cake flour, 2 scant cupfuls, sifted twice again with spices.

—my recipe.

Through creaming is the secret of this cake's perfection. Add soda to cream, add unbeaten egg to creamed sugar and whip well, then alternate cream and flour in mixing batter. Divide between two layer tins, oiled and dusted with flour. On top of one layer put sliced dates and nut meats covered with brown sugar and a dusting of cinnamon. Bake the layers in a 300 degree oven and put them together with a custard mixture when cool. (1 cup top milk cooked with 1-4 cup sugar, 1 egg yolk and 7 teaspoons cornstarch. Flavor with vanilla).

The two layers are now anchored by the custard filling, the top layer appetizing with its baked fruit and nut finish. For the sides, beat the unused egg white stiff, then add 2-3 cup powdered sugar sifted twice with 2 tablespoons cocoa. Add 2 tablespoons melted butter and frost the side walls of cake, leaving top plain.

Strawberry Whip
Whip 2 egg whites with 1-2 cup sifted powdered sugar, until stiff
Add 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Fold into cream 11-2 cups crushed ripe strawberries (excess juice drained off) and add 8 marshmallows, cut in quarters. —contributed.

Healthy Feet

After each bath, dry your feet thoroughly. Powder them. If you prefer, massage with cream before you powder. Soft corns between the toes are due to too much moisture. To get rid of these, paint nightly with a solution of 1 dram of iodine in 1 dram of colloidon. Allow air to circulate by placing a small piece of lamb's wool between the toes during the day.

DIG DOWN

The serious faults of childhood demand treatment and cure. By serious faults I mean those that people generally condemn—lying, stealing, cheating for personal gain, injuring others without reason or pity. At some time or other a child will show traces of one of these faults; a simple correction serves the purpose. When these tendencies seem to strengthen and continue in spite of treatment and corrections it is necessary to dig down into the child's life to discover the cause of the difficulty. Until that cause can be found and removed little can be done to change the child's behavior.

Begin early. Be honest with yourself about the child's doing. When you see him planning, executing and covering up a deception or any other sort of wrongdoing don't say, "It is all his active imagination," to comfort yourself and avoid the unpleasantness of laying bare his error. Imaginative story-telling has a different quality from selfish lying, and any experienced adult knows the difference. Cowardice of spirit sometimes keeps us from facing the ugly thing when we see it rearing its head. Parents and teachers cannot afford this sort of self-indulgence. We have to dig down below the roots of the thing and cast it out.

How? That is a fair question, but nobody has the answer because each child varies according to his peculiar nature, and one has to study each mistake in relation to each child to find the answer. One child is in fear of social failure, another of punishment; one child is ill, and illness warps the thought of the patient. One child lacks the power to distinguish right from wrong; another is suffering from a disease of the nervous system. A few cases of bad behavior are caused by poor teaching and example at home. The causes are as varied as the behavior of the children, and must be skillfully uncovered.

This requires the cooperation of the family, the school, the whole social machinery that we have established for the safeguarding of childhood and youth. The physicians are learning more and more how to help erring children. So are the teachers and the mothers. All of us are needed. Time, patience, great faith and much effort go into the problem of curing the behavior cases, but the result justifies it.

I have no one remedy to offer, but my experience has taught me that there are a few ways that do not work though they have been used time on end. Public shaming of the children is very harmful. Beating them makes the bad matter worse. Crying over them and preaching at them only irritate and bewilder them the more. The only way that works is the slow and careful way, taken step by step, to the cause of the trouble.

Don't gloss over the facts to comfort yourself or excuse yourself. They cannot be removed that way. Don't feel disgraced, if you have done your best to help the child. Don't tell the world about his difficulties, but stand by him; keep his confidence; remain his friend. Never tell him that he is hopeless and that you can't do anything with him. Maybe you feel that way, but don't tell it. Try again and have faith in the ultimate success of your efforts. The great majority of children tend to goodness and to normal, average maturity.

NEWS OF THE WORLD PORTRAYED IN PICTURES

New Southland Jail Added to Federal Penal System

The new Federal Prison at Terminal Island, Los Angeles, just recently dedicated, is the newest of Uncle Sam's system of 20 penal institutions. The institution is designed primarily to serve the southwest portion of the United States and will house some 700 "short-term" prisoners whose sentences do not exceed 18 months.

When Japanese Began to Tighten Suchow Lines

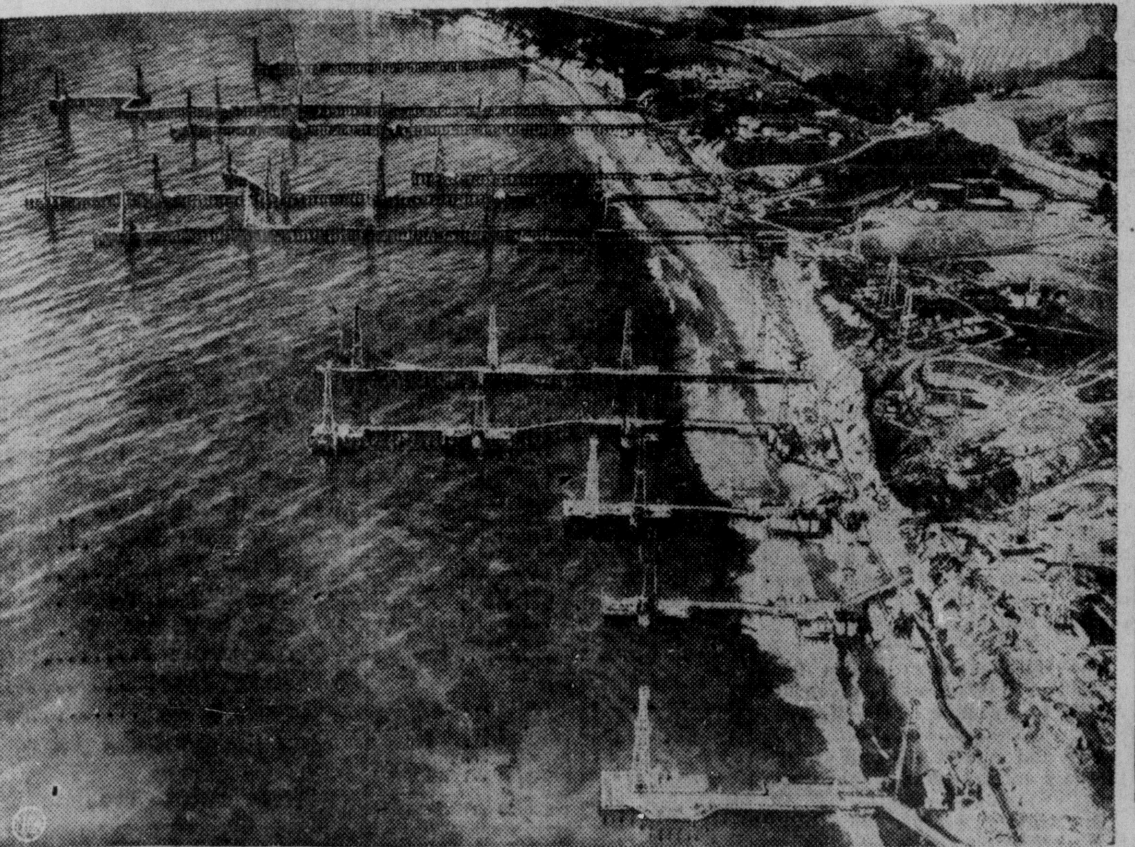

Forward goes a detachment of Japanese artillery corps in their encircling drive around Suchow, strategic Chinese position. Horses failed to get this field piece atop a hill commanding a vantage point, but soldiers of Nippon shouldered gun and carriage, marched on in their drive.

Big Gun Blows—Camera Catches Shells In Flight

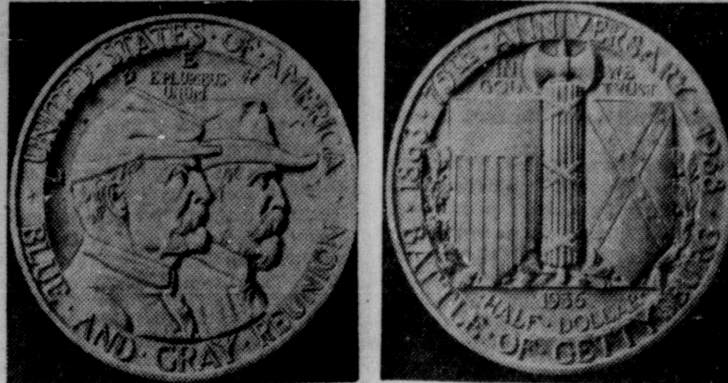

In this spectacular and unusual picture, an alert cameraman caught a shell from a big army gun in full flight (upper right-hand corner) a fraction of a second after the gun was fired. The photo was made as the 52nd Coast Artillery Regiment of the U. S. Army ended the regiment's encampment at Lewes, Del., with a three-day target practice using mobile railway rifles.

Government, State, Individuals, Battle for 'Fields'

Private industry, federal, state and local agencies are waging court battles to determine the ownership of these oil "fields," located on tidelands off the Southern California Coast. Offshore oil wells, drilled on piers extending as far as 1500 feet into the ocean, are now under control of private companies. Above, an aerial view of the Elwood Field, north of Santa Barbara, one of the fields for which a title battle is being waged.

U. S. A. Half Dollar Shows C. S. A. Flag

For the first time in history, a United States coin will bear the flag of the Confederate States of America, when the mint issues the new 50-cent piece pictured above. Commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, the obverse side, shown left, bears heads of a Union and Confederate soldier. The reverse side, pictured right, has a mace flanked by shields, one showing the stars and stripes and the other the starred St. Andrew's cross of the Confederacy.

Connie's Art Row Goes to Court

In Los Angeles a jury was selected to decide whether an oil painting of Connie Bennett, executed by Willy Pogany, was true to life, or full of anatomical errors. Miss Bennett has refused to pay the artist because, she says: "The eyes are not looking out of the canvas, they bulged; my shoulders are too round; and my thigh is too large." The two suit principals are shown in court.

Prague Sees War Clouds

Residents of Prague, Czechoslovakia's capital, fear they may soon have to put into practice the lessons they learned from their recent anti-air raid drills, initiated when Europe had seen the fate of Austria. They fear such scenes as that above, showing an incendiary bomb dropped from a plane, may become grim reality.

Police Quell Demonstration With Tear Gas Barrage

Firing heavy barrages of tear gas, Akron, O., police are pictured as they battled demonstrators in a riot at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in which more than 100 persons were injured. Faced with threat of further trouble, police were maintaining armed peace around the plant while union leaders talked of a general strike. The night rioting developed swiftly when—as union leaders called a meeting to announce that they were unable to obtain satisfactory answers on grievances from Goodyear—reports arrived that the company was removing material from its plant.

Nightsticks Rain on Heads of Goodyear Strikers

Flailing police nightsticks beat a veritable tattoo on the heads of rioting strikers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber plant in Akron as this picture was taken during the height of a three-hour battle which followed attempts by pickets to prevent a night shift from entering the plant. More than 100 persons, including several women, were injured in the riots, which police finally subdued to a point where an armed peace prevailed. Mayor Lee D. Schroy of Akron asked Governor Davey of Ohio to "stand ready" to send troops into the city, where a general strike was threatened.

Back To Movies

Returning to Hollywood after an absence of 13 years—and apparently still acting—famed actress Nazimova will help produce "Zaza" in which she herself played in 1901.

Caryl vs. Carol In Marital Mixup

A marital mixup which the court eventually may have to untangle became still more complicated when Miss Caryl Nicholson of Chicago, left, was married quietly to James L. Abernathy, wealthy Kansas City lumber dealer, despite a court injunction forbidding him to wed. The injunction, obtained by Mrs. Carol Ridenour Abernathy, right, former wife of Abernathy, in connection with her suit to annul their divorce, was never served on Abernathy. After a conference with the bride's family in Chicago, it was decided to proceed with the wedding, three days in advance.

Mary's Marylyn

Mary Astor's daughter Marylyn Thorpe, center of a sensational custody battle between her mother and father last year, vacations in Hawaii—where she was born to the screen star six years ago.

Wedding Features Murder Trial

Jurors in the murder trial of three Seattle, Wash., police officers were witnesses to the wedding of Bernard Minsky and Bernice Gratias, performed in the courtroom after court adjourned. The ceremony was held there because Sidney Coe, the best man, is a juror, and could not be separated from his fellow jurors for the wedding. Facing Judge Douglas are Coe, the bridegroom, bride, and Miss Muriel Rich, the bride's attendant.

As Rebels Desert Their Comrades

Forsaking rebel chieftain Saturnino Cedillo as 12,000 federal troops swarmed into the Mexican state of San Luis Potosi, armed agrarians are pictured above as they surrendered their rifles to soldiers of President Lazaro Cardenas. Meanwhile, however, other rebels spread the revolt outside of San Luis Potosi and clashed violently with federal troops in a number of cities.

DRIVE CAREFULLY—SAVE A LIFE—

WISDOM FROM YOUTH

Some time ago a high school class in a farming community was asked to write essays on various farming problems. One boy wrote in part: "Two things are necessary to help dairymen. First, farmers need better organizations; second, farmers need more education about marketing problems."

That is as true as it is simple. And it applies to all other branches of agriculture. Farmers who scientifically develop and serve markets, and who are represented by well-financed, efficiently managed and loyally supported marketing organizations are, in the long run, prosperous and progressive farmers. They will face fewer periods of crisis than other, disorganized farmers. And in good times and bad they will earn a better livelihood. Marketing co-operation simply means putting agriculture on a business basis, which eliminates hit-and-miss methods and so far as possible guarantees that the producer will have a profitable market for what he raises.

DOG IN MANGER POLICY

E. S. Duffield of the Wall Street Journal, writes: "As the New Deal prepares to go into another large spending program, Administration officials see little likelihood that the spending will be used to enlarge the federal government's electric power 'yardstick.'"

"Since the situation now points toward no new power developments by the government, some officials are beginning to urge that the Administration capitalize on this situation by issuing the long-demanded statement defining the areas within which the government will confine its power activities."

If our government would assure investors on this point it would do much to curb depression. The lack of new utility financing, construction and expansion has been an extremely important factor in bringing on and continuing the current nose dive in business. It will remain an extremely important factor so long as we have a socialistic national power policy—and so long as investors fear further subsidized government competition with the private companies, further unfavorable legislation, and further attempts at virtual confiscation of private utility properties.

The time is ripe for the government to announce exactly how far it plans to go with its power socialization program. Sooner or later the people must be informed whether or not political plans call for a limitation of socialization to the utility field, or whether it will be extended to other private industry through subsidized government competition.

Responsible utility officials are firmly on record in saying that a fixed government power policy, which would assure the industry that it is no longer to be man-handled, would unleash billions in spending power, and create tens of thousands of new jobs. The beneficial results would be felt in every state. New money would circulate through every community. If it is true that the government does not plan further power socialization, financed with public money, it should say so, and keep its word.

POLITICS PARALYZES BUSINESS

From 1920 to 1930, according to Newsweek, corporations did 88 per cent of all new financing in this country. From 1931 to 1937, corporations did only 15 per cent. The balance of 85 per cent was done by governments—federal, state and local.

One result of that is the immense increases in taxes and public debt that have occurred in recent years. Another, is the virtual standstill of industrial expansion and betterment. Any economist can tell you that real recovery is impossible unless expenditure of private capital is markedly increased. Private capital is the sole source of productive jobs and taxes.

Depression was the original dominant factor in the decline in new industrial financing. But there is an additional factor today which has become increasingly dangerous and that is governmental persecution of industry which normally would be among the country's greatest spenders. A case in point is the electric industry. This industry wants to expand its plant facilities and better its service. Yet there have been almost no new capital utility issues in the last few years, because investors, watching the government's anti-utility policy and its subsidized tax-free competition with this industry, are afraid to invest. No less an authority than Col. Leonard Ayres of the Cleveland Trust company, has described the utility situation as the key log of the 1938 economic jam.

No one knows how many jobs have been thus lost, but the number runs into the millions. And the amount of new money that the industry would spend, if it were freed from paralyzing fear of political destruction, is conservatively estimated as several billions. And this would not be taxpayers' money. It would not further inflate taxes and public debt. Instead, it would create new sources of tax revenue, stimulate the national income, and bring recovery measurably nearer.

Writing in the Wall Street Journal, Bernard Kilgore recently said that the government has "licked the power and light utilities to a standstill." And what a price the people have paid for that "licking" in unemployment, in reduced industrial spending, in shaken confidence, and in more depression.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, June 1. — The government chart of national income which Mr. Roosevelt generally uses as his economic guide shows a further decline this month. Both national and farm income, and prices are continuing to slide softly while the cost of living has remained practically stationary since January.

Official economists see some good signs in the facts that the recent fall of a large mail order house showed some price cuts; that textile prices have been cut; and further weakening has been noticeable in raw material costs. They think that as soon as some firmness is manifest in manufacturing prices, retailers and wholesalers will jump in and do some heavy buying. As for income, nobody knows:

The answer being offered here again is that no one can make a profits system work without profits. These come first and foremost.

Relief bills cannot make national income. Only business profits can, because only these furnish the proceeds in wages and taxes to pay the freight of a profits system. Wage-hour legislation, government reorganization, anti-monopoly drives, and such may or may not be needed reforms, but they will turn out to be worthless without business profits.

As soon as the prospect for profit is visible in industry, recovery will come—but not before.

A new White House legislative agent has been doing some soft shoe work at the Hill lately, unknown even to the official leaders. He is Clinton Hester of the Treasury Department General Counsel Oliphant's office.

Legislators approached by Mr. Hester have learned quickly that he is a very good friend of non-bureaucratic legislation, government reorganization, anti-monopoly drives, and such may or may not be needed reforms, but they will turn out to be worthless without business profits.

Hill assumption is Hester is doing some pinch hitting for son James in the legislative line, as the President now has no regular legislative agents on the Hill since Charles West was fired, except Joe Keenan, Tom Corcoran, Ben Cohen, the cabinet and the sub-cabinet.

The Republicans are looking up since the Oregon, Pennsylvania and South Dakota primaries showed Republican majorities.

Official see Joe Martin now has compiled a private list of 137 Democratic seats, instead of 75, which he thinks the Republicans have a good chance of winning. The bulk of them are in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and New Jersey. Heaviest ammunition will be concentrated there.

Any Republican gain above 113 would give them the house.

Best non-partisan guess continues to be 70.

The choice hand-picking of Senate wage-hour conferees who would back southern differentials is being popularly blamed on Mr. Garner, the V. P. He did only the naming of them. The choice was made by a group of 15 Senators who met in the office of Senator Pat Harrison the day before the choices were announced. They chose Pepper and Ellender who have always stood for differentials.

Incidentally it is an even money bet some of the labor spokesmen are not even going to be lukewarm for the form of the bill which will finally emerge from that conference.

Misunderstandings never cease to bedevil the misunderstood Mr. Hopkins.

It was erroneously assumed in this spot recently that Hopkins was right in concluding that his senatorial candidate Otha Wearin in the Iowa Democratic primary had stood by Mr. Roosevelt through thick, thin and medium.

Correction: Wearin's voting record shows he voted against AAA, NRA, the 1935 tax bill; voted to override Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the bonus, the historic independent offices bill; and was not recorded either way on Hopkins' relief appropriation bill last June. The record indicates Wearin got right with God and Mr. Hopkins only recently.

They do not make many smarter politicians these days than Senator Jim Davis. For long time he carried a maulers' union card, AFL. When the CIO took over the steel unions, he quietly took a CIO card. Thus if John Lewis opposes him, Lewis will be opposing one of his own members.

Fellow Citizens:

Mr. Stovall in his recent article wonders why none of the various pension plans of California have been enacted into law. I often ask the same question. We are told by those who have made an investigation that some eighty pension plans have been promoted in California at a cost in 1937 alone of around six million dollars, paid by the old folks mostly out of social security and other pension funds. To get some idea of the amount collected by pension promoters, compare the total followers of all the 531 congressmen at $10,000 per year paid by the whole United States. While congress during the 1937 session passed more than 600 laws at a total cost in salaries of $5,316,000, the promoters of the numerous California pension plans did not get one law on the statute books, although they collected $6,000,000 more than the total salary paid to the 531 congressmen in the two houses. This sum was paid by those least able to pay same, from funds, in most cases, donated by the taxpayers as pensioners. If the figures given by Mr. Aukerman in his article are true why are not the voters convinced of the merits of the Townsend Pension Plan? Briefly, he states that there are around 2100 old people over 60 years of age in Santa Ana who are receiving $200 per month, would be compelled to put into circulation $420,000 per month, which would result in the building of factories, that if they paid employees $125 per month would bring prosperity to all. He says the reason people oppose the plan, is because they do not understand it. Well, when will the average voter ever understand the proposition, if promoters discuss its merits to the old folks, only who are prospective pensioners. Voters usually vote against any proposition they do not understand, and wisely so, too. So I ask a clear thinking business man why, with Mr. Aukerman's figures before him, could he oppose the plan? I will give you, in substance, his reply. He said, if you collect $420,000 from the funds used in transactions or business in Santa Ana, you have taken the same number of dollars out of circulation; that you put back into circulation; not counting the cash of collecting and distributing the funds. The estimated cost of collecting and disbursing transaction, sales or trade tax is 25 per cent. Twenty-five per cent of $420,000 is $105,000 the estimated cost to operate the pension plan. Mr. Aukerman proposes to pay men who work and support families $125 per month, while paying an aged couple $400 per month which they would be forced to spend each month. Why not pay the man who labors, to feed and clothe wife and children $400 per month, and force him to spend or invest same each month, and pay the old couple $125 per month to be spent as they wish? It would create as much prosperity as the other method and be more nearly just and fair, it seems to me. A great number of the owners of filling stations, as an example, turn over their investment each week, or 52 times each year. They would pay a transaction tax on all investment each week, or 10 per cent of total capital each year, for pensions alone. The old people

Rewriting Constitutional Law

By ERIK MCKINLEY ERIKSSON

Professor of History, University of Southern California

During the past two years a remarkable transformation has taken place in the Supreme Court. From 1934 to 1936, inclusive, the Court found no less than fourteen of the New Deal measures to be unconstitutional. In contrast, the majority of the Justices have, since December, 1936, ruled in favor of the New Deal in more than twenty-five cases. Not only has the highest tribunal demonstrated a willingness to validate even the most drastic of the administration sponsored laws but, in so doing, it has not hesitated to reverse previous decisions. A similar attitude has been manifested in relation to some state legislation.

Illustrative of this recent tendency to rewrite constitutional law are the 1937 decision validating the 1935 farm mortgage moratorium act; the decisions of December, 1937, and March, 1938, permitting the state and federal governments to tax certain income previously considered exempt; and the 1937 decision upholding the women's wage law of the state of Washington. In each of these decisions the Court reversed itself.

A more recent example was a decision on April 25, 1938, which held the so-called Municipal Bankruptcy Act to be constitutional. Only two years ago, by a five to four vote, the Court found unconstitutional a federal law enacted in 1934 which excluded the bankruptcy privilege to municipalities or other political subdivisions of the states. This legislation, the majority of the Justices believed, was a violation of states rights since it threatened to interfere with the control by the states of their internal affairs. This majority view was ridiculed by the minority of the Justices who declared that the rights of a state could not be violated when it gave its consent to the bankruptcy procedure.

Refusing to accept this decision as final, Congress proceeded, in August, 1937, to enact a new municipal bankruptcy law. This act differs but slightly from that which was invalidated. That it safeguards state rights any more than the 1934 law is doubtful.

Shortly after its enactment, an irrigation district in Tulare County, California, sought, under the law, to arrange a settlement with its creditors. This district, with bonds out-would spend their pension once each month or 12 times a year, hence they would greatly retard the movement of money because it is used in from 35 to 120 sales, transactions or trades each year. Hence to allow old people to hold large sums of money for a whole month would stagnate business. If business men turned over their capital, say 35 times each year and paid a transaction or trade tax each time of 2 per cent, the total pension tax paid per year would be 70 per cent of the capital, a sum business men are unable to pay, hence they oppose the Townsend Pension Plan.

The great popularity of gliding and soaring has inspired enthusiasts to form clubs, purchase or build ships and learn to fly them.

Congested highways, particularly in the vicinity of the large cities of the country, have a new menace to drivers in the form of hundreds of thousands of glittering, shifting, illuminated advertising signs.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The best of them do it. Senator James F. Byrnes is one of his party's three ablest Senators and would make its greatest Senate leader or be an outstanding President. But he is reported to have said the other day in debate:

"Before my special committee studying unemployment and relief, we asked every business spokesman what else we could do than what we are doing? The only answer we got was to repeal or modify the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes and business would surge ahead. Well, I'm waiting to see it surge."

After reading nearly the entire record of that testimony, I recall no such statement by any "business spokesman." If there had been, these taxes would not have been "repealed," and "modified" might mean anything. The undistributed profits tax was helpfully "modified" but the changes in the capital gains tax were not enough to answer the showing of its effect to paralyze business.

There might be something debatable about Mr. Byrnes' assertions about that, but there is nothing debatable about his "the only answer we got etc."

They got one answer which was a studied philosophical analysis of every cause of this depression. It was by an elder economic statesman, wholly friendly to both the New Deal and the Senator. It traced every cause directly to a deliberate Administration policy and made suggestions of improvement. The analysis contained these statements:

"Of course all this depends on national policy. If it remains what it recently has appeared to be, there is no hope of reemployment and substantial recovery. If it could be changed along the lines I have tried to indicate, I believe that we would have a rapid and immediate rise in all economic indexes."

"I have recently heard some men reproach business for the alleged failure to step forward and employ the millions of jobless and intimate that, if business doesn't, government will. In addition to being illogical and unfair, that raises hopes that can never be realized and expresses a promise to unfortunately that can never be fulfilled."

"I say it with regret, but I would be less than candid if I failed to express my opinion that unemployment is now traceable more to any government policy than to anything that business could or should do and that, if these policies are not changed, neither business nor government can ever solve this most terrible of all our problems."

Those studied friendly criticisms and suggestions covered policies of taxation—not merely as to the two taxes the Senator mentioned, but the whole tax structure. It covered the administration of relief, social security and the problems of monopoly, railroads, agriculture, pump-priming, unemployment, wages and hours, money, budget and labor relations.

Above all, in discussing: "What else we can do than what we are doing," it touched on the growing uncertainty as to whether, under the Third New Deal, we are to operate under the capitalist or profits system or under the socialistic or communistic idea of forced "production for use and not for profit" and said:

"We can try either but we can't try both at the same time. The hope of gain demands more freedom from political domination of business than is consistent with any wear of punishment... If it became clear tomorrow that America has definitely chosen her traditional, profits system, forces would be released that would rapidly hasten recovery and employment."

This testimony received the widest press and editorial comment of any private utterance of recent times—here and abroad. The President remarked of it that he had "only read the headlines." Although he was the instigator of this minor show, the good Senator Byrnes was apparently deaf that day and didn't even read the headlines next day.

HERE AND THERE

At a recent test planned to demonstrate the simplicity of operation, a man who had never before sat at the controls of a plane began receiving flying instructions at dawn. During the day he spent five and one-half hours in the air with an instructor. He soloed successfully before sunset.

You will find an unusual activity in plant modernization if you take a cross-section of any automotive plant.

The most alert individual, scientific tests have shown, needs not less than half a second start braking his auto.

Depending upon the stress and strain to which it is to be subjected, every piece of metal used in the manufacture of the automobile is treated with heat and gases.

After a year of conducting drivers' tests, the American Automobile association has decided that men are better automobile drivers than women.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

DO THE WEALTHY WRITE OUR LAWS!

"Sharing the Comforts" has no desire to be personal but does have a desire to point out the misstatements and untruths that are being spread by the sheltered educators. For this reason, some of their theories will be presented as referring to Professor X. These conditions are not imaginary, but real.

Invariably you will hear these sheltered educators contending that the business interests are responsible for the laws we have. When these sheltered educators are asked to name the Federal laws that the business interests have passed in the last 25 years, the only one they can name is the tariff law. But they will have to admit that many business men are not in favor of tariffs. Some of the wealthiest men, such as Henry Ford, oppose tariffs.

Then these sheltered educators immediately attempt to jump out of this misstatement by saying that they prevent laws for the good of humanity from being passed, and when asked what desired principle they have prevented from becoming a law, the only answer this writer has ever heard was the child labor law.

And when asked how preventing children from working and learning by working could bring about this depression, they have no consistent answer.

But even in the face of the blind alleys these sheltered educators find themselves in and their inability to give examples of their contentions, they continue, parrotlike, to repeat these untruths. They have a most phenomenal capacity for being inconsistent.

And they have no solution at all for 10,000,000 people out of work other than the straw men that they set up as an alibi for the misery, poverty and suffering that they have brought on the people of the United States by their thoughtlessness and a cowardly desire to blame someone for their own misdeeds.

When these sheltered educators are asked if they think the industrialists would have passed the Wagner Act, the Income Tax Law, the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, they do not answer, but attempt to change the subject.

If they do answer they misquote Emerson by saying that consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, while Emerson really said, "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds." And these sheltered educators attempt to be consistent by refusing to correct their misstatements and their philosophy of justice, even if they cannot give examples to prove their contention.

"COUNTRY CLUB" EDUCATION

A certain sheltered, public educator, who has little conception of what real education is, although he claims to be an educator because he loves the work, likes to attempt to educate himself by pleasant and agreeable pastime rather than by hard experience on a competitive basis.

To put this into practice, instead of reading the great masterpieces of the ages which might require mental activity and reason, he spends his summers traveling abroad, looking at the scenery and talking to a few people with whom he might possibly come in contact. And this educator kids himself into thinking that he is qualifying himself to become a leader of men, to direct the youth of the land. Instead of directing the youth, he choreographs their minds and does them infinite harm.

No education was ever acquired by the pleasant, agreeable "country club" methods of sightseeing and talking to a few people a stranger can meet. It comes from experience and coming in contact with the great thinkers of the ages who can point out the inconsistencies of an individual.

It would seem that school executives who are responsible for selecting educators, if they were not politicians and were real educators themselves, would recognize that a man who spent his time and energy in this way was not at all qualified to be a leader of youth.

But this is the result of public education. The people who select the leaders of youth are not consistent themselves. They are not educators, but only sheltered politicians.

CONSISTENT GOVERNMENT

The more consistent a government is, the better the government will be. One hears the arguer saying that this is not necessarily true, because a government may be consistently bad.

But a government cannot be consistent and bad. It would be discriminating; it would be partial; it would show favoritism; and this would not be treating all people equal before the law. It would not be consistent.

If there is any one thing needed in the United States, it is a consistent government that attempts to treat each citizen as nearly as possible alike in all matters. It makes no difference whether they be rich or poor, wise or ignorant, selfish or altruistic, selfish or patriotic; they should treat every individual exactly alike for the same act of each individual.

This, of course, would put more responsibility for discretion, assistance, charity on private individuals unless the government regards those to whom they granted assistance as wards of the state and did not allow them to participate in having part in the operations of the state.

SOUND STATEMENT

Roosevelt certainly made a sound statement in his Arthurday speech when he said, "We should adopt tax policies which will encourage men to venture and to build new productive wealth."

But how can there be a graduated tax on profits that can comply with this principle? The way to adopt this principle is to put a graduated tax on large personal living expenditures and no tax at all on the money that is invested in enterprise.

What we would like someone to explain is how this statement can be consistent with the ability to pay theory. If one is right, the other is wrong.

Constancy is never the virtue of a mortal; To be constant one must be immortal.
